Cotton Prices Break $3 a Bale After Government Crop Forecast—Reaction in Wheat and Corn After Rise.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Equity shares once more suffered a severe sinking spell in today's stock market. Losses running from 5 to more than 17 points in a long list of leading favorites reduced the general level of prices close to that of early July, from which the recent bull movement started.

With the break in the cotton market, followed by a reaction in wheat and corn, ticker service reported a reduced level of activity. The commission of the Wheat, Corn, and Cattle markets, however, showed a recovery in the wheat and corn markets, and a slight recovery in the cattle market. The cotton market, however, showed a continued decline, with prices falling to a level not seen since early July.

After substantial losses during the morning, stocks began to meet around midday, but a break of about $3 a bale in cotton prices on the reading of the Government crop report, indicating a yield about 300,000 bales in excess of most private estimates, encouraged the bears to increasing boldness. Cotton closed $2.10 to $2.15 lower.

The grain markets quickly reacted under profit-taking, inspired by nervousness over the action of cotton and a Weather Bureau report that rains may appear about the middle of next week to relieve the drought. Wheat, having sold up about 2 to 3 cents during the morning, lost its gains and closed barely steady. Corn had also been firm during the early hours, but closed 1/2 to 1 1/2 cents lower.

Guaranty Trust Co. Subsidiary.

Asking for the appointment of a receiver for the Commonwealth Farm Loan Co. and an accounting, Mrs. Katherine Heiderle, a widow, today filed suit in Circuit Court alleging that the company is hopelessly insolvent, is operating at an annual loss of $100,000, and that it is unable to pay $300,000 in obligations.

The petition also states that the company, a subsidiary of the Title Guaranty Trust Co., is delinquent as to principal and interest payments on certificates of indebtedness amounting to $175,000 and has contingent liabilities on $750,000 of guaranteed obligations partly secured by property.

Mrs. Heiderle says she invested her entire capital in eight promissory notes of $500 each, secured by a deed of trust on 800 acres of farm land in New Madrid County, Mo., and that the company a year ago took up the notes and issued guaranteed certificates of indebtedness which it has refused to pay on her demand.

Says He Bought Dynamite While Out Riding With Her, but She Knew Nothing of His Plan.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

STINNETT, Tex., Aug. 8.—A. D. Payne, Amarillo lawyer, made a full confession yesterday of the murder of his wife in Amarillo, June 27, by a bomb placed in the rumble seat in the family automobile. Mrs. Payne was killed. Their 9-year-old son was permanently injured.

District Attorney Edward Thompson last night made public the main parts of Payne's confession, but withheld certain details on the ground that they were "too brutal."

"I've allowed all of it to be published we would never be able to try Payne in this county, the prejudice against him would be so strong," Thompson said. "Another reason for withholding the details of some of his most fiendish crimes is that we are afraid that, if the public learns everything, it might lynch Payne despite what we think are mob-proof jails."

Payne told all the details of how he murdered his wife with dynamite, placed in the car she was driving, and said he was not sorry that he did it. He said that he was sorry he did not succeed in his attempt to murder his son, A. D. Jr. "I hate him," was his explanation of that.

MARION, Ind., Aug. 8.—Two Negroes who were said to have confessed the murder of Claude Deeter, 23 years old, a Fairmount, Ind., youth, and a criminal attack on his 18-year-old girl companion, were lynched by a mob last night, Thomas Shipp, 18, and Abe Smith, 19, were taken from jail here, beaten to death and their bodies suspended from a tree on the courthouse lawn. At 6 o'clock this morning the mob spirit had subsided sufficiently to permit Sheriff Jacob C. Campbell to remove the bodies.

The Negroes were taken from the jail last night by a mob which formed at Fairmount, Deeter's home city, 10 miles south of here. Traveling in automobiles, the mob came on to Marion, where many others joined.

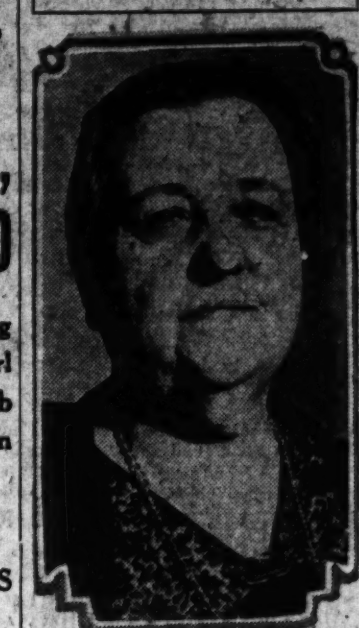

A swift attack swept aside a handful of local police and county officers who sought to repulse the crowd with tear gas bombs. Using heavy sledge hammers, the mob smashed locks and bars and soon had possession of the Negroes.

Women joined with men in belaboring the youths with clubs and hammers. Some women tore with their fingernails at the victims. Shipp was first clubbed to death. His body was then suspended from a jail window with a rope. Smith was next taken from his cell and beaten to death. His body was hanged from a tree. Shipp's body later was hoisted alongside of that of his companion. The two bodies hung throughout the night, the mob milling about and warning officials against removing them. As daybreak came the mob faded away.

The city was quiet today. Authorities expressed the belief that there would be no recurrence of the mob spirit and that other Negroes in the city were safe.

IS INDICTED ON PERJURY CHARGE

Mrs. Mabel Hinkley Ordered Arrested Because of Testimony in Radio Broadcasting Trial.

As order for the arrest of Mrs. Mabel Hinkley, defeated Republican candidate for nomination for Circuit Judge at the primary election last Tuesday, on a Federal indictment charging perjury, was issued today by United States District Attorney Brewer.

The indictment was returned by the last Federal grand jury and grew out of Mrs. Hinkley's testimony in Federal Court as a defense witness for George W. Fellows, charged with illegal radio broadcasting. The indictment was suppressed by Brewer until after the primary in order that no complaint could be made by Mrs. Hinkley that the action was actuated by political animus.

Brewer announced that a capias for Mrs. Hinkley's arrest would be placed in the hands of a Deputy Marshal for service. The District Attorney's action followed a report he received that Louis E. Miller, attorney for Mrs. Hinkley, was waiting for the Government to act before surrendering his client. Bond for Mrs. Hinkley will be $2500.

The perjury charge resulted from a conflict between Mrs. Hinkley, a practicing attorney, and Government witnesses in the trial last May of Fellows, who was convicted of operating an unlicensed radio station at his home, 3462-A Gravois avenue.

DEMURRER

DEFENDANTS

Court Rejects Plea in Behalf of Contractor, J. C. Pritchard and G. B. Heath Accused of $157,064 City Lighting Fraud.

ORDERED TO GO
TO TRIAL OCT. 13

Severances Have Been Taken by the Three Men and Circuit Attorney Will Decide Which Is to Be First to Face Jury.

Circuit Judge Hamilton today overruled the demurrer, filed by attorneys for A. M. Ryckoff, Chicago contractor, John C. Pritchard, former Director of Public Utilities, and George B. Heath, former chief electrical engineer, in the effort to obtain dismissal of the information charging the three with obtaining $157,064 from the city by false pretenses, in the execution of Ryckoff's contract for street lighting installation.

The court's action means that Ryckoff and the two former city officials must go to trial for the overcharge made by Ryckoff and approved by the officials, shown first in an investigation conducted by the Post-Dispatch. The present setting of the case is for Oct. 12, before Circuit Judge James P. Green.

To Be Tried Separately.
The defendants have taken severances, so that Circuit Attorney Miller, who will handle the prosecution personally, will have to decide which one he will bring to trial first.

Ryckoff and the two officials were indicted in 1927, after the Post-Dispatch showed, by a private engineer's investigation, that the city had been heavily overcharged by Ryckoff on paving and sidewalk replacement items. Pritchard and Heath resigned, and the city began an investigation, conducted by Pritchard, former Director of Public Utilities, and George B. Heath, former chief electrical engineer, and ascertained the exact amount of the net overcharge. An information was then issued, replacing the indictment, and citing the figures obtained by the survey.

Several legal points were raised by Daniel Bartlett and William Baer, attorneys for Ryckoff, and Patrick H. Cullen, attorney for Pritchard and Heath, in the demurrer filed by them last March, attacking the State's information. They alleged that the State failed, in the information, to plead the lighting contracts for Districts B, C and D, handled by Ryckoff, and did not set forth the locations and boundaries of those districts. They charged that the prosecution had made the legal error of including allegations of willful fraud, and acts of mere negligence, in the same accusation.

Addition of Territories and Possessions Brings Total of Inhabitants to 124,848,664.

Census Bureau Announces That Further Revision Is Expected to Make Little Change.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Population of continental United States for 1930 was announced today by the Census Bureau as 122,698,190, an increase of 16,987,570, or 16.1 per cent over 1920.

Adding the total inhabitants of the possessions and territories of the United States the bureau found the total population of the United States in 1930 was 124,848,664, an increase of 17,329,509, or 16.1 per cent over 1920.

This was 21,282 under the compilation made on the basis of preliminary official figures from supervisors by the Associated Press. The figures have been under revision by the Census Bureau since they were received from the states. Massachusetts probably will lose one of its House delegation in the reapportionment under the figures announced today. Previous estimates had given the Bay State more than 100,000 persons over the 435,046 made public today.

Some comfort was seen for Indiana in the official announcement of the reapportionment under the figures announced today. Previous estimates had given the Hoosier State more than 100,000 persons over the 435,046 made public today.

ARRESTS REPORTED IN BOND THEFT RING

Three Men Reported Held in Chicago and $25,000 in Loot Recovered.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—The Chicago Daily Times today said three members of an alleged $1,000,000 international bond theft ring had been arrested in Loop hotels by detectives, and that the leader was running into a trap set for him by authorities.

The Daily Times said one of its reporters discovered that the three under arrest had been held incommunicado in a local police station since Saturday and reported that they are Stanley McCormick, Leo Mergen and R. W. Hampton, alias Bacon, of Indianapolis, Ind.

The newspaper quotes Police Capt. Dan Gilbert as saying that Mergen, an ex-convict, had $25,000 worth of stolen bonds in his possession. The bonds included 100 shares of Ohio Public Service Co., two bonds of the Michigan Public Service Co. and an Erie Force Co. bond.

Capt. Gilbert said the Merrill stock was taken in a burglary of the company's New York store on Dec. 2, 1925; the Ohio bonds, with $20,000 worth still pending, were the company's sale in Ohio; the Michigan bonds from a messenger and the Erie bond in a holdup at Memphis, Tenn., last year.

brought to the Grant County Hospital where he died yesterday afternoon.

Shipp, Smith and Cameron were arrested by police at their homes and Sullivan in an automobile.

Remains of contemplated mob violence were heard in Marion yesterday and authorities said last night they had learned the crowd assembled at Fairmount, Deeter's home town. Shortly after dark they left for the county seat, 600 strong, and their automobiles surrounded the jail building.

While preparations were made to repulse the attack, Sheriff Jacob Campbell called for assistance from surrounding cities, but a large posse of officers arrived too late to prevent the lynching.

For a short time the mob was driven back with tear gas, but, using water to counteract the effects, the mob stormed the jail. An attempt to burn the body of Shipp, hanging 25 feet in the air, failed when a pyre built underneath failed to touch the body.

This was the first lynching in the memory of Marion residents. About 40 years ago an attempt was made to lynch a white man in jail here, but failed. Previous to last night there had been 24 lynchings in Indiana since 1839. Two of the victims were white, 14 Negroes.

Shortly after the heights of the violence at the courthouse square 600 Negroes gathered in the Negro section of the city, but no action resulted beyond objections voiced by several speakers, who charged the Sheriff's force with failure to protect the prisoners. No shots were fired during the assault on the jail.

Sheriff Campbell removed the bodies from the tree at 6 o'clock this morning. At that hour there were only a few spectators about the courthouse.

LINDBERGH SAYS AVIATION AIDS IN UNITING NATIONS

In First Radio Address, He Urges Uniform Regulations and Predicts Transoceanic Service.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—In his first formal radio address Charles A. Lindbergh today urged uniform flying regulations for all nations and predicted that the next few years would bring transoceanic air routes to unite continental services already established into a network covering the world.

"To realize the full significance of this development, however," he said, "it must be considered as a part of the whole system of modern transportation. For unless some radical scientific discovery revolutionizes our present aircraft we cannot compete with ships and railroads in the movement of most articles of commerce."

The airplane augments rather than replaces ground transport. Its mission is to simplify intercourse between countries by rapid transportation of passenger and documents; to bring us in closer contact with other people and to facilitate the negotiations necessary for mutual understanding and trade."

Speaking over a microphone in the Columbia Broadcasting System studio, Lindbergh delivered his talk twice to world wide audiences. First he talked by short wave for Europe, Asia, Africa and Australia and later for American listeners served by both the Columbia and Broadcasting Co. chains.

"Throughout history," Lindbergh said, "the progress of civilization has been dependent on the development of transportation. . . . Every great advance in transportation has forecast a greater unity in world government."

"The twentieth century," he continued, after amplification of this statement, "brings a third dimension in transportation to a world which has not yet time to become accustomed to the more recent developments of the railroad and the steamship. The airplane and the airship are placing time and distance on a new scale of reality."

Aviation, as it is today, is having a world-wide effect on communication. If we attempt to envision what it will be after a century of modern scientific development it is difficult to find precedent for the advances it may bring to civilization."

Fascination of Flying.

"Aviation has not gripped the imagination of the world solely because at last man found a way of flying. Its fascination lies far more in the changes it is bringing about in existing methods and policies. Possibly the most important effect will be on international relations."

"When measured in hours of flying time the great distances of the world no longer exist. The airplane is bringing about the traditional obstacles of earthbound travel. There are no inland cities of the air and no natural obstructions to its commerce."

Lindbergh added that if the principle he accepted, life today would be preferable to that of ancient times, then it is logical to assume that any future improvement in transportation will result in a corresponding advance in methods of living.

Saying that the distance of places has been judged by their accessibility, Lindbergh expressed hope that aviation would replace former false impressions of geography with a true order of location.

"The ease of travel between Canada, Mexico and the United States, for instance," he said, "will undoubtedly bring about still closer co-operation between them."

He closed his address by saying that one of the most important factors contributing to the rapid expansion of airlines in the United States has been Federal supervision and consequent freedom from local restriction.

CHARGES FOUND TO BE UNTRUE

Committee Appointed by Governor Reports Occupants "Happy and Content."

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 8.—A committee appointed by Governor Caulfield to investigate charges of bad conditions at the Federal Soldiers' home at St. James reported today to the Chief Executive that the allegations were not true. The committee was composed of the Missouri heads of veterans' organizations.

The Governor named the committee after the United States War Veterans, passed a resolution characterizing the home as a disgrace. This followed similar charges by Jacob Kuhl of St. Louis. The committee took Kuhl along on its tour and "found that he could not substantiate any of the allegations submitted."

The report said occupants were interviewed in all of the buildings and not one complaint was made. "In fact they seemed anxious to be there and they were not only well satisfied, but happy and content."

The body urged that the next Legislature appropriate sufficient funds for a 100-bed, fireproof hospital to take the place of the hospital destroyed by fire some time ago.

NO PERMANENT CLIMATE CHANGE IN TWO CENTURIES

Weather Average Constant Despite Occasional Extremes, Experts Assert.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Inhabitants of sections in which 100 degree temperatures have been commonplace in recent weeks and others in which there has been no rain for even a longer time, may be interested to know that the weather hasn't changed permanently for more than 200 years.

Lieut. C. E. Marvin, Chief of the Weather Bureau, thinks there has been no permanent change in climate for many centuries on end. There may be trends, he concedes, of hotter, or colder, or drier or wetter weather for several years, but on the whole, weather balances to about a constant factor.

Washington had 25 inches of snow in 24 hours in January in 1921. That was more snow by several inches than has fallen in a day at St. Paul, Boston, Chicago or New York since the Weather Bureau began keeping records in 1870. But that did not prove that Washington gets more snow than any other city in the country.

Although the thermometer is only 200 years old, the oldest national Meteorological Service in Europe, that of France, Marin said, antedates the American service by only 15 years. To judge what the weather was before, he explained meteorologists have studied river stages, floods, heavy freezes, crop failures, famines and other unusual weather conditions recorded in histories or diaries.

LINDBERGH'S RADIO ADDRESS TO BE HEARD AT 9 TONIGHT

The first formal radio address by Charles A. Lindbergh, published elsewhere in this edition of the Post-Dispatch, which was broadcast on a short wave length this afternoon for reception in Europe and other distant stations, will be heard at 9 o'clock tonight over three St. Louis stations, KSD, KWK and KMOX.

The network of 140 stations which will broadcast the talk on "International Aviation" is the largest ever assembled. The speech is included in the edition of the National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia Chain.

Five short-wave stations at New York, Philadelphia, Schenectady, Pittsburgh and Brookline, N. J., will broadcast the address. A station at Sydney, Australia, arranged to pick up the short wave and re-broadcast it for its local listeners.

Atmospheric Conditions Prevent Trans-Atlantic Broadcast.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—England was disappointed tonight not to hear Col. Lindbergh's voice in a broadcast across the Atlantic. Atmospheric conditions were so bad before the time scheduled the British Broadcasting Co. announced it would make no attempt to relay the address.

Hoover Birthday Gift.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—President Hoover today received the first of his fifty-sixth birthday gifts from a group of picked boy scouts from the District of Columbia. Although the Chief Executive's birthday is not until Sunday, the gift, a carved buffalo horn, symbol of pioneer days, was presented because Mr. Hoover planned to leave Washington late today for his Virginia lodge where he will observe his birthday. The horn was carved by the boys themselves for Mr. Hoover, who is honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America.

THE successful flight of the R-100 again challenges our progress in aviation. Notwithstanding our original discoveries, our efforts to build military planes during the war were feverish, but, owing perhaps to the limited time, were not highly successful. These experiments, however, did produce plant equipment and engineering skill. During mobilization this arm of national defense was somewhat neglected. The elders in the army and navy were impatient with the claim of the youth in aviation. The Morrow Committee in 1925 laid out a wise plan which quieted the disputes and confusion. Then came the Lindbergh flight with its great impetus to public interest.

After that date, commercial aviation had a wide development. The regular mileage for passenger and mail carrying routes in North and South America expanded tremendously. Much capital and railroad support were secured, but just how progress awaits scientific discovery. A naval office reports that the best engine is made abroad. That is disconcerting. With the resources now available, the science of construction and the art of safe navigation ought to command the most intense research by both private and Governmental agencies. We cannot afford any second place.

$10,000 ONLY A LOAN, MRS. EWALD ASSERTS

Tells of Home Deal With Tammany Man—Denies Husband Knew About It.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Mrs. Bertha Ewald, wife of resigned City Magistrate George F. Ewald, explained today to the District Attorney why she paid $10,000 to Thomas F. Tompansky, chief clerk of the County Sheriff's office, at about the time her husband was named to the magistrate's bench in 1927.

She said, according to District Attorney Crain, that she decided to buy a home for herself, her husband and her parents and borrowed $5000 from her father, with whom she was in the motion picture business.

She got a check for the amount, she said, and after cashing it she was visited by Tompansky, who said Martin J. Healy, Deputy Commissioner of Plant and Structures and a Tammany leader, wanted to buy a house but was short of cash. She gave Tompansky the $5000 cash and a check for an equal amount, she declared, getting in return a note payable in May, 1932, and bearing no interest.

She insisted that her husband knew nothing of her transaction with Tompansky.

Crain's office, as well as a Federal grand jury, have been inquiring into charges that Ewald paid $10,000 for his appointment to the magistracy.

JUSTICES TO VISIT BILLINGS

By the Associated Press. SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8.—Justices of the California Supreme Court today decided to go to Folsom prison next week to question Warren K. Billings, serving a life sentence for the 1916 preparedness day bombing here, on his application for a pardon.

The hearing will be Wednesday or Thursday, possibly at night when all prisoners will be locked in cells, minimizing danger of a demonstration.

Mexican Entry Regulation.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—New immigration regulations requiring Americans and other aliens entering Mexico for employment or business purposes to obtain permission from the Secretary of Government in Mexico City, were announced by the State Department yesterday. The ruling does not apply to tourists, but to commercial travelers.

Dry Raiders Dig Up $5000.
NASHVILLE, Ill., Aug. 8.—Sheriff Martin H. Petri and deputies while making a raid yesterday on the farm of Nick Wisniewski, seven miles south of here, failed to find liquor, but did find $5000 to $6000 in four glass jars buried in loose earth in the floor of a garage. Wisniewski, who was away, later claimed the money and it was returned to him.

CAPONE MAN IDENTIFIED AS JACK ZUTA'S KILLER

Ted Newberry, Former Moran Follower, Recognized by Witnesses, Police Say.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—The search for the slayers of Jack Zuta, North Side vice leader, produced several theories today.

Ted Newberry, former whiskey dealer for the Moran-Allelo-Zuta triumvirate, was identified by witnesses as one of the men who shot down Zuta last Friday night in a lake resort dance hall near Delafield, Wis. Newberry, police said, left his North Side gang several months ago after an attempt was made to assassinate him, and went over to the "Scarface Al" Capone's gang.

Another theory involved Henry Finkelstein, tentatively identified as one of several men who stood outside the hotel dance hall while five others entered and killed Zuta. Finkelstein had long been associated with Zuta in the operation of night clubs. Finkelstein was brought into the investigation at about the same hour District Attorney Herman Salen of Waukegan, County, Wis., disclosed that George (Bugs) Moran, head of the North Side gang, had occupied a cottage near Delafield for two weeks in July.

Witnesses. Ines Fehrman, a waitress at the resort, furnished the description that police said fitted Finkelstein. As a safety measure, she was taken to Milwaukee by District Attorney Salen.

The tracing of telephone calls between the resort and Chicago on the day of the killing brought new results.

Zuta called Mrs. Laura Nelson of Chicago half an hour before he was killed. Police think this call was arranged by the woman so that Zuta would be at the dance hall. An hour earlier, another call had been put through to Mrs. Nelson from Hartland, Wis., a few miles away. The assassins, the police think, made this call, Mrs. Nelson disappeared the morning after the Zuta killing.

Another telephone call indicated Zuta feared an attempt on his life and sought protection. A girl told the investigators she was in a drug store in Pewaukee, near Delafield, the day of the killing, and that a man came in and put in a call for Chicago. He was excited and cursing, the girl said. She said she overheard the conversation and quoted the man as follows:

"You better send someone up here quick. I want a bodyguard and an escort back to Chicago."

She identified pictures of Zuta as the man who made the call. Another body of a man was hauled from the sanitary district canal near Cicero last night. The man, whose features resembled those of a Chinese, had been slashed and beaten, but not shot, the police said.

The Chicago American says Finkelstein and two companions were encountered by a reporter riding in an automobile. He stopped only long enough to deny any participation in the killing, or knowledge of who might be implicated.

"I haven't been out of Chicago for several weeks," he said. "I know Zuta, all right, but I haven't had anything to do with him for a couple of years." He refused to give his present address here, admitting he was hoping to evade police questioning.

Patrolman Hayes Exonerated. Patrolman Hugh C. Hayes, who shot and killed an unidentified burglar yesterday after surprising him in a restaurant at 4518 Shennandoah avenue, was exonerated by a coroner's jury at an inquest today.

BAKERS SAY WAGES KEEP BREAD PRICE UP

Price of Wheat Minor Matter,
They Aver in Statement—
Cite Payments for Labor.

Cheap wheat does not mean cheap bread, according to a statement issued by the secretaries of the bakery proprietors' organization and the bakers' union. The wage scale is declared to be a more important factor.

The statement, prepared by John M. Hartley, of Chicago, secretary of the Associated Bakers of America, and C. F. Hohmann, corresponding secretary of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union of North America, was issued through Frank G. Jungwaller, 2127 South Jefferson avenue, a St. Louis officer of the Associated Bakers.

"It is a far jump from the price of wheat to the price of bread," the statement reads. "There are a lot of wages between the wheat elevator at the small railroad station and the baked loaf—modern wages, too. When wheat was previously at the present price level, wages were less than half modern wages. That includes railroad wages, milling wages, the wages of bakers, driver-men and all bakery workers."

No Desire for Cheap Wheat.
"Were the farmer to give his wheat to the miller for nothing; were the miller to mill the flour for nothing; were the railroads to carry the wheat and flour for nothing and have it delivered free to the baker's door, the average cost of bread in this nation, delivered to the grocer without profit to the baker, would be within a few cents of $4.35 a hundred pounds."

"If you will consider that $4 flour, representing terminal wheat at about $1.30, would increase this cost only $1.00 per 100 pounds of bread, it will be evident that the baker has no interest in, or desire for, cheap wheat."

"There is but one way that the price of bread can be lowered to the level at which it was when wheat was at the same price previously. That is, by restoring the wage scales of that period. That would mean the wrecking of every wage scale in the nation and lowering of living conditions generally."

"To upset earning power and spending power now would bring no benefit to agriculture, and would only make a bad matter worse. It is hoped these agencies working on the constructive side to solve the present maladjustment of the wheat price will achieve success. Leveling up is infinitely preferable to the backward drift of leveling down."

An 18-year comparison. The table prepared by the Department of Labor, as to relation of wheat and bread prices over 18 years, and printed in the Post-Dispatch July 15, is included in the statement, but a scale of bread's minimum wage has been added to it. With this addition, the table shows:

Year	Average Wheat Price Kansas City	Bread—Fourth Round St. Louis	Bakers' Wages
1913	$0.17	8.5 cents	$16.25
1914	0.22	8.5	17.64
1915	1.30	7.9	19.76
1916	1.35	7.5	19.75
1917	2.20	8.5	19.76
1918	2.18	8.5	19.76
1919	2.18	10.0	27.40
1920	2.48	11.5	27.40
1921	1.35	9.9	27.50
1922	1.21	8.7	27.50
1923	2.11	8.7	27.53
1924	1.22	9.5	28.27
1925	1.67	9.4	28.77
1926	1.50	9.4	28.77
1927	1.37	9.3	28.93
1928	1.33	9.0	28.93
1929	1.15	9.0	28.93
1929 May	.99	8.8	28.93

The scale of wages shown with the wages in practically every shop, even though not organized," the statement adds. "All other wages in the trade have kept pace with the increases to the skilled bakers."

Divorce William Seidel.
Mrs. Lillian Holland Seidel, 4613 McPherson avenue, obtained an uncontested divorce yesterday from William Seidel, a former clerk of the St. Louis County Court, before Judge Koenig. The alleged desertion and non-support. The Seidels were married in 1924 and separated last month.

City Had 5000 Population
100 Years Ago
Back in 1830, one hundred and three years ago, St. Louis had a population of only 1044. Forty-three years later, in 1873, William Frankfort started to manufacture upholstered furniture. In 1887 the Frankfort-Litten Furniture Co. opened a retail store at Fourth and St. Charles Sts., and continued to manufacture upholstered furniture. Just now, in their Annual Summer Sale, hundreds of values are offered in furniture for the entire home, including their "Own-Make" upholstered furniture. See their values today or Saturday!

CONSERVATIVE CABINET IN CHARGE IN CANADA

Special Session of Parliament to Meet Next Month to Tackle Unemployment.

By the Associated Press.

OTTAWA, Aug. 8.—A Conservative Government, headed by Premier R. B. Bennett and composed of Ministers drawn from every province in the dominion today was in charge of Canada's affairs.

The new ministry which came into power as a result of the victory over the liberal party in the recent general election, was inducted into office yesterday simultaneously with the resignation of Premier W. L. Mackenzie King and his Cabinet. It is the first Conservative Government in Canada since the World War.

Unemployment which figured as an issue in the election is the first problem to which Premier Bennett plans to turn his attention. A special session of Parliament will be held in September to deal with the subject.

Premier Bennett is the only member of the Cabinet from Alberta. He is Secretary of State for External Affairs and Minister of Finance.

Ontario has seven portfolios,
Quebec four and also one Minister without portfolio. Each of the maritime provinces and the provinces west of the Great Lakes has one portfolio.

Gideon D. Robertson, who was at the head of the Labor Department during the serious unemployment situation of 1920-21, has been named Minister in the new Government. Premier Bennett said this appointment was made to meet the present unemployment situation and that eventually the labor portfolio would be turned over to a member of Parliament. Special seats will be provided for Robertson and other members of the Cabinet who are not members of the House of Commons.

The new Cabinet, in order of precedence, follows:

R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister, president of the privy council, Secretary of State for External Affairs and Minister of Finance.

Sir George H. Parley, K. C., M.
P., Minister without portfolio.

E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Fisheries.

Senator Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labor.

Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice and Attorney-General.

H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals.

E. B. Ryckman, Minister of National Revenue.

J. A. MacDonald, Minister without portfolio.

Arthur Sauve, Postmaster General.

Col. Murray MacLaren, Minister of Pensions and National Health.

H. A. Stewart, Minister of Public Works.

C. H. Cahane, Secretary of State, D. M. Sutherland, Minister of National Defence.

Alfred Durand, Minister of Marine.

Thomas G. Murphy, Minister of Interior and Superintendent of Indian Affairs.

Maurice Dupre, Solicitor General.

W. A. Gordon, Minister of Immigration and Colonization and Minister of Mines.

Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture.

BAD STRIP ON SIDE OF FREE BRIDGE PATCHED

Funds Lacking to Pave It Properly — Eads Span Traffic Problem.

Although about two-thirds of the width of the Municipal Bridge vehicle roadway is paved smoothly with asphalt, the remaining portion consists of a strip of deteriorating wood blocks, spotted with asphalt patches. The Street Department is engaged this week in tearing up short stretches of the worst of the wood blocks and substituting asphalt, but it lacks funds to make a complete change—a condition which has been chronic for years.

On each outer side of the roadway there is an unused street car track, about two feet from the curb. The wide space between the two tracks and the narrow space within the rails of the south track are well surfaced with asphalt. There is a strip of wood blocks about two feet wide, in good condition, between the south track and the south curb.

However, the corresponding space between the north track and curb and the area within the rails of the north track has rough and broken wood blocks interspersed with asphalt patches for the entire length of the bridge—a mile and an eighth. This objectionable strip, used by westbound vehicles, is about seven feet wide. To replace it with a complete asphalt surface would cost about $25,000, Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks estimated. He has tried without success for several years to have a fund for this included in the over-taxed budget.

Maintenance funds are used for such repairs as can be made. One effect of the poor strip of paving is to reduce the space for the heavy movement of vehicles over the bridge between East St. Louis and St. Louis. Many drivers refuse to use this part of the bridge and crowd into the center section, increasing the hazard of driving. The roadway is only about 21 feet wide between curbs and vehicles cannot get too close to the curb for fear of brushing against the steel pillars.

The car tracks also tend to throw traffic toward the center of the roadway in two opposing lines. They never were used for regular service and there is no likelihood that they ever will be, but the city has no intention of removing them. Director Brooks asserted that removal would cost $40,000. He doubts that the tracks hamper traffic. The trolley wires were removed some time ago.

The recently installed automatic signals to regulate traffic at the Seventh street entrance to the bridge and nearby on the cutoff at Seventh and Chouteau avenue, are working smoothly, officials say.

TREE-SITTER WHO WAS KILLED DECLARED KENTUCKY CHAMPION

Up 400 Hours at Ashland; His Two Principal Competitors

Deceased.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 8.—Nelson McIntosh, 18-year-old Ashland tree-sitter who fell to his death Wednesday after remaining in his perch for 496 hours, has been declared State champion by virtue of the descent of his two chief competitors here yesterday.

Sherrod Rouser, 11, abandoned his perch, saying, "I could not take the little away from a boy who is dead." He had been up 408 hours. Joe Riley, 9, only 20 hours behind Rouser, fell from his tree. He was not injured.

WON'T STOP SNORING; STABBED

Charles Stewart Attacked by Negro

on City Hall Lawn

Irritated because of the snoring of Charles Stewart, 50 years old, on the City Hall lawn early today, an unidentified Negro stabbed him three times in the back and chest. Stewart is in a serious condition at the City Hospital.

Other men on the lawn told police Stewart slept through a chorus of shouts to "stop that snoring" when a Negro, who had been lying nearby, arose and stabbing him.

MARY BLAKE SPEAKING

CANDY SECRETS FROM A LITTLE SOUTHERN SWEET SHOP

Down in Louisiana there is a quaint sweet shop where you can buy the most delectable home-made candies. Its fair owner, whose name reveals her patrician French ancestry, makes every delightful, old-fashioned sweet with her own hands. The very names suggest old-time goodness—peanut butter fudge, penoche, pralines, divinity candy. But one ingredient, common to them all, is as modern as tomorrow. It is Carnation Milk.

Here is what Mrs. de B— says of it: "Carnation Milk is wonderful for making candy. I always use it."

What Mrs. de B— did not say is that there is a very definite reason for the silky-textured, melting-smooth candies which Carnation makes. It is the finer Carnation particles—broken up by "homogenization"—and distributed uniformly all through the milk, so that every drop shares in this creamy fineness of texture.

The same smoothness and rich creaminess which Carnation Milk gives to candies, it gives to all dishes in which it is used. Pure, whole milk evaporated to double richness, it saves on butter and cream; is always uniform in quality, always dependable. It is protected at the source; Carnation "field men" are constantly busy teaching dairymen the money value of good food, clean water and well-kept barns for their cows, and of the clean hands and clean utensils that keep the milk up to the Carnation standards of purity. Being sterilized, it can be kept without waste. And in results it outdoes even the best of bottled milk.

I am giving you a recipe for a simple delicious candy. The Carnation Cook Book has other delightful candy recipes. Send for it—it is free. Also write for free Baby Feeding Book. Address Carnation Company, 100 Carnation Building, Oconomowoc, Wis.

Carnation Coconut Cream Candy—2 cups sugar, ¼ tsp. cream of tartar, 1 tsp. butter, ¼ cup of Carnation Milk, ¼ cup water, ¼ tsp. vanilla, 1 cup shredded coconut. Mix sugar, cream of tartar, and Carnation diluted with water; cook to the soft ball stage. Remove from fire and add butter. When cool add vanilla and beat until creamy. Add coconut and drop from spoon into small balls on a buttered plate, or mold on a buttered plate and mark into squares.

USE THE SAFEGUARDED MILK

Doubly rich in cream, Carnation Milk makes every dish richly delicious. And how it cuts your cream and butter bills! Use this pure, dependable milk for all cooking. Carnation Milk, through the constant activity of Carnation "field men," is safeguarded at the source, by clean housing of every herd and clean handling of all the milk. And this protection continues until Carnation Milk reaches you in its hermetically sealed containers.

RAYMOND B. GRIESEDECK'S ESTATE VALUED AT $170,314

It Consists Mostly of Commercial Stocks Listed at Par

Quotations.
An inventory valuing the estate of Raymond B. Griesedieck, president of Griesedieck Bros. Brewery Co., who died July 12, at $170,314 was filed in Probate Court today by his administrator, the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co.

The chief item consists in stocks of industrial companies, principally in St. Louis, inventoried, according to par values, at $123,928. Outstanding among the stock holdings are 514 shares in the brewery company, $51,400; 144 shares in Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co., $14,400, and 144 shares of preferred stock in the Hydraulic Press Brick Co., $14,400. Today's market on the bank stock is $248.50 a share, compared with the par of $100, while the latest figure on the brick stock was $31 a share.

The will left $1000 to a brother, Anton A. Griesedieck, and the residue of the estate to the widow, Mrs. Laura K. Griesedieck. The will states no provision was made for the son, Henry A. R. Griesedieck, and commands him to his mother.

Other items in the estate are: Bonds, $46,200; notes, $1419; cash, $4486; household goods in the home at 4515 Maryland avenue, $255, and stocks of doubtful value in 15 mining and industrial companies.

KANSAS CITY FOR BUSSES TO REPLACE 13 TROLLEY LINES

Asks Public Service Commission to Substitute Them on Certain Unprofitable Routes.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 8.—The City of Kansas City recommended yesterday that the Missouri Public Service Commission increase street car fares in Kansas City to 10 cents for the casual rider, the base fare of 8 cents to remain unchanged.

The proposal by the city, formally presented to the commission and the street car company, is the result of several weeks of study by Dean Henry Earl Riggs and W. A. Patton of the University of Michigan Engineering School, who have assisted the city in its appraisal and valuation of the properties of the Kansas City Public Service Co.

The city recommends that 13 lines deemed unprofitable, be discontinued and swift buses be substituted. Buses are recommended on all routes where electric cars are earning less than 20 cents a car mile. This, it was said, would increase the revenue of the company more than $200,000 a year.

It is contended by the city that elimination of competitive bus lines and substitution of bus lines on non-paying street car lines would save the company at least $169,000 a year, the amount Powell C. Gruner, president of the company, has testified the company lost last year through the operation of buses.

The hearing on the application of the company for a fare increase will continue until about the middle of next week.

MAYOR'S OPINION LIKELY TO PREVAIL ON CITY CHAIRMAN

Republican Committee Majority Friendly to Him, and He Seems Satisfied With Page.

With membership of the Republican and Democratic city committees determined for the next two years by the voters in last Tuesday's election, the committee is preparing to elect their officers. Meetings to be held on Aug. 19.

Opinion at City Hall is that Park Commissioner Page, committee member from the Eleventh Ward, can be re-elected chairman of the Republican group if he desires. There is some talk that R. E. Gruner, new member from the Twenty-fourth Ward, supporter of Mayor Miller and lumber dealer, may be a candidate, but there has been nothing to show that the Mayor does not want Page to continue.

The Mayor's word is likely to be decisive for 35 of the 66 committee members are friendly to him. Page is refraining from announcing himself as a candidate. He has said he would not make a fight to get it, which means that any decided opposition should bring up his would not run. He would like to have it in spite of the annoyances and worries attached to the job.

There might be objection to Gruner for chairman as a new member, in which case Ben Phillips of the Fourteenth Ward or Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Bidel of the Thirteenth might become a compromise candidate. There have been no objections to Page's record as chairman, but the committee disregarded his effort to establish a slate of approved candidates for nomination to be supported by all the members. Page also backed several losing candidates who were opposed by many of the Mayor's workers.

If Page is re-elected it is virtually certain that the other officers will be also. They are: Mrs. Kate Kuhnert, Twenty-fourth Ward, vice chairman; Charles R. Gillespie, a city employe, Twenty-sixth Ward, treasurer, and Mrs. Celeste T. Biese, Twentieth Ward, secretary. Mrs. Kuhnert, with a vote of 4439 in her ward for re-election to the committee, against 3214 for two opponents, had a much larger poll than any other unopposed candidate, but her ward has the largest registration in the city.

Gillespie, like Page, supported associate City Counselor Richards for the nomination for Prosecuting Attorney, although the Mayor was for Police Judge Rosencranz, the winner. Gillespie was the only ward Richards carried. For this reason there may be a fight on Gillespie.

Meetings to be re-elected.

Indications are that Chairman Meesters, Seventh Ward member, and the other officers of the Democratic City Committee will be re-elected. Meesters has held the place for some time. There is a little of the perennial talk of unseating him, but it has not progressed far. The others are: Mrs. P. H. Hogan, Fifteenth Ward, vice chairman; J. J. Fitzsimmons, Eighth, treasurer, and Mrs. Mada Wood, Eighth, secretary.

Before the primary there was some discussion among Democrats of the possibility that a lawyer of wider acquaintance might be substituted for Eugene J. Santer of 21 Russell boulevard as the party's candidate for Prosecuting Attorney if Rosencranz became the Republican nominee. This talk has died down and some Democratic leaders think a good fight can be made with Santer on the ticket, particularly since he has a strong following among South side residents, where the Republican vote usually is large. Democrats have spoken of Rosencranz as the easiest Republican to defeat.

Aldermanic Gossip.
Results of the primary election have started speculation about the Republican aldermanic contests next spring. Fourteen Aldermen, from the even-numbered wards, are to be chosen then. A successful doubtless will be picked for Alderman Hoofa of the Second Ward. Republican nominee for Clerk of the Circuit Court for Criminal Cases, as his election is anticipated. He will serve as an Alderman until Dec. 31, leaving his ward unrepresented in the board for three months.

Alderman Lange of the Sixth, who failed of nomination for Recorder, was aligned with Commissioner Scott, who was defeated for re-election. The new committee may fight Lange. Alderman Hirth and Commissioner Lehmann of the Eighth opposed each other for a committee for Constable, and while the returns have not been counted, it is probable that Lehmann won. Hirth had supported an unsuccessful opponent against Lehmann for the committee. Hirth may have trouble in his campaign. Alderman Meisinger of the Tenth will have an unfriendly committee member.

Republican Committee Majority Friendly to Him, and He Seems Satisfied With Pape.

With membership of the Republican and Democratic city committees determined for the next two years by the voters in last Tuesday's election, the committees are preparing to elect their officers at meetings to be held on Aug. 19. Opinion at City Hall is that Park Commissioner Pape, committee man from the Eleventh Ward, can be re-elected chairman of the Republican group if he desires. There is some talk that R. E. Gruner, new member from the Twenty-fifth Ward, supporter of Mayor Miller and lumber dealer, may be a candidate, but there has been nothing to show that the Mayor does not want Pape to continue. The Mayor's word is likely to be decisive for 35 of the 56 committee members are friendly to him. Pape is refraining from announcing himself as a candidate. He has said he would not make a fight to get it, which means that if any decided opposition should spring up he would not run. He would like to have it in spite of the many annoyances and worries attached to the job.

Gillespie, like Pape, supported Complete City Councilor Richards for the nomination for Prosecuting Attorney, although the Mayor was for Police Judge Rosecan, the winner. Richards was the only ward (Richards carried. For this reason there may be a fight on Gillespie's nomination to be re-elected.

Indications are that Chairman Meisters, Seventh Ward member, and the other officers of the Democratic City Committee will be re-elected. Meisters has held the place for some time. There is a little of the perennial talk of unseating him, but it has not progressed far. The others are: Mrs. P. H. Hogan, Fifteenth Ward, vice chairman; J. J. Plimsimous, Eighth, treasurer; and Mrs. Madge Wood, Eighth, secretary.

Before the primary there was some discussion among Democrats of the possibility that a lawyer of wider acquaintance might be suggested for Eugene J. Barstow of 411 Russell boulevard as the party's candidate for Prosecuting Attorney if Rosecan became the Republican nominee. This talk has died down and some Democratic leaders think a good fight can be made with Sartorius on the ticket, particularly since he has a strong following among South side residents, where the Republican vote usually is large. Democrats have spoken of Rosecan as the easiest Republican to defeat.

Alderman Neuman of the Twelfth, vice president of the board, has an unfriendly committeeman against him, the ward having gone over to the forces of Colonel Kessler whom Neumann has opposed. Alderman West of the Sixteenth, Schwartz of the Twentieth, Kreuger of the Twenty-fourth and Waldman of the Twenty-eighth all are likely to find their committeemen backing rivals for the board. Kreuger and Committeeman Klein of the Twenty-fourth are at odds because they differed in the last mayoralty race and because Klein has taken the popular view in the ward of opposing the new Southwest Highway desired by the City Plan Commission, which Kreuger has championed.

Alderman Pett of the Eleventh, who lost the nomination for Clerk of the Court of Criminal Correction, has more than two more years of his aldermanic term.

Vacancies in Police Court.
One or both places as Police Judges will be vacant after December 31. It is thought, since Judges Rosecan and Beck both are nominees for other offices, Beck for Circuit Judge, Probation Judge George Foster, who submitted for Beck during the campaign, is likely to get one appointment. George L. Stemmer, a lawyer, has been one of those mentioned for a second place.

The official count of the vote in the primary began at City Hall today and will require several days. Members of the Republican and Democratic State Committees will be chosen on Aug. 26 and those committees will meet with State and legislative candidates on Sept. 8 to draft platforms.

Old-Style Calomel Gives Place to the De-Nauseated Tablet Known as "Calotab."

With all of the livercleansing and system-purifying qualities of the old-style calomel, but robbed of its sickening, griping and dangerous effects, Calotab is destined to become the most popular as well as the most useful of all home remedies. For biliousness, constipation and indigestion it is absolutely indispensable, for nothing but calomel will straighten out a congested liver. One tablet at bedtime with a glass of water—that's all. No taste, no griping, no nausea. Next morning your liver is clean, your system purified, and you are feeling fine, with a hearty appetite. What you please, no danger. Beware of imitations! Genuine Calotabs are sold only in "checker-board" (black and white) packages bearing the copyrighted trade-mark "Calotab" in large family size sells for thirty-five cents; vest-pocket size, ten cents. All dealers are authorized to retail the price if you are not delighted with Calotabs.

are nominees for other offices, Beck for Circuit Judge, Probation Judge George Foster, who submitted for Beck during the campaign, is likely to get one appointment. George L. Stemmer, a lawyer, has been one of those mentioned for a second place.

The official count of the vote in the primary began at City Hall today and will require several days. Members of the Republican and Democratic State Committees will be chosen on Aug. 26 and those committees will meet with State and legislative candidates on Sept. 8 to draft platforms.

MAN 'BURIED' FOUND ALIVE BY RELATIVES AFTER FUNERAL
William L. Lewis, Baltimore, Meigs Street, St. Louis, Mo., was found alive and well, after being buried for a second time. He was found by relatives who had attended the funeral of their uncle, who had been buried alive and well, standing at the intersection of a busy street. Police, to whom the relatives appealed, changed Health Department records to show an unidentified man had been buried. The coroner could do no more, and told them there was no way to recover funeral expenses. Last Monday a man was found dead in Carroll Park and Charles Howser identified him as William L. Lewis, an uncle, who had lived with him 15 years. The identification was confirmed by other relatives and allies.

BERNARD SHAW SIGNS TALKIE CONTRACT

Thinks "Poor Old Theater Is Done For" and Can't Compete With Films.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

(Copyright, 1930, by Press and Tribune Publishing Cos., New York World and Post-Dispatches.)

LONDON, Aug. 7.—George Bernard Shaw signed his first motion picture contract yesterday, one providing for production as a talkie of his play, "How He Lied to Her Husband," by British International Pictures, Ltd.

"The poor old theater is done for, I am afraid," Shaw said. "All my plays will be made into talkie films before long. What other choice is open to me? The theater may survive as a place where people are taught to act. Apart from that there will be nothing but talkies soon."

"How can second and third traveling companies with all their day-to-day expenses possibly compete with films which may have cost $250,000 to $750,000 to produce?"

"Why have I stood out so long against the films? I have stood out against the silent film, it is true, because it is no good to me. But I certainly have made no prolonged stand against the talkie film, which is a different proposition altogether."

"I have signed a contract now because I want to make some money. I cannot tell you which of my plays is likely to be filmed next. It may conceivably be 'Arms and the Man.' I do not know."

"The reason I took my own contract with me to the film people is that I have always drawn up my own contracts and taken them with me. When it came to signing them, my experience has been that the average lawyer has no idea how to draw up a contract which is outside his usual run of business. So I do my own."

COURT ORDER AGAINST HAWKS

Flyer Must Show Why He Did Not Pay $10,000 to Former Wife.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 7.—A court order obtained by Mrs. Newell Vaughn, his former wife, appeared likely today to interfere with plans of Frank Hawks to start Sunday on an air dash to New York.

Hawks, who Wednesday established a new east-west transcontinental airplane speed record, was required by the order to appear next Monday to show why he had not paid a judgment of $10,000 to Mrs. Vaughn, who divorced him in 1924.

The judgment was obtained last April 15 on charges that the flyer had failed to pay notes given by him to his former wife in January, 1921. The money, Mrs. Vaughn said, was used by Hawks as part payment on his first privately owned plane.

COLLINS WINS WESTERN JUNIOR TITLE DEFEATING CHAMBERS, 5 UP

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Charles Collins of St. Louis just about had the Western junior golf championship in his bag at the twenty-seventh hole of his 36-hole final match with Bill Chambers of Chicago today, leading five up as they made the last turn for home.

Their cards for the first nine of the afternoon round:

Par—out.....525 444 344—36
Collins.....454 444 354
Chambers.....545 545 342

Collins grabbed a 4 up lead over Chambers at the half way juncture.

Collins gained a 2 up lead at the end of the first nine, with almost perfect golf, and although he weakened on the inward, he stretched his lead to two more.

Collins touched the 18 set with a medal card of 18 strokes, while Chambers took an 82, 10 over par.

Chambers was victimized by a three-putt epidemic and was wild off the greens, whereas Collins played methodical golf.

Their morning cards:

Par—out.....525 444 344—36
Collins—out.....525 455 355—41
Chambers—out.....525 444 355—41

Collins—in.....636 344 455—40—78
Chambers—in.....635 354 455—42—82

Collins, St. Louis, 19 years old, who was medaled in the qualifying round with a 73, took rank as one of the finalists yesterday by defeating John Banks of La Grange, Ill., 1 up, over 19 holes. Bill Chambers, Chicago, defeated Joe Switzer of St. Louis, 2 up, to qualify as Collins' final opponent.

JENNINGS

60 PLAYERS ARE EXPECTED TO COMPETE IN NET TOURNEY

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—At least 60 players from the public tennis courts of American cities are expected to compete here Aug. 12 to 23 for the national public parks title now held by George J. Jennings Jr. of Chicago.

In addition women's competition will be added to the tournament for the first time.

Jennings, who won the singles championship at Buffalo, last year has signified intention of defending the crown at the eighth annual renewal of the competition. With Robert B. Conner of Washington, he also will defend the doubles championship.

The tournament will be conducted under auspices of the United States Lawn Tennis Association. Last year 53 entries from public park courts entered and this year's list is expected by the committee in charge to be greater.

Invitations have been sent to 5000 cities for the selection of singles and doubles teams, and with the addition of women's contests plans are being made for mixed doubles competition.

The matches will be played on the Rock Creek Park courts, with Col. U. S. Grant III as honorary referee. It is the first time Washington has had the national tournament.

Cities which have indicated they would send representatives to the Washington tournament include Chester, Ind.; Birmingham, Ala.; New York, Detroit, Wilmington, Del.; Philadelphia, Nashville, Providence, R. I.; St. Louis, Baltimore, Annapolis, Pa.; Buffalo, N. Y.; Little Rock, Ark.; Rockville, Md., and Falls Church, Va. Buffalo, St. Louis and Detroit will send women's teams.

Two St. Louisans In 1153-Mile Outboard Race

By the Associated Press.
BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 8.—The "And How III" speedboat was the first of the outboard racers to reach here today of the five which started from New Orleans this morning in a race up the Mississippi River for St. Louis.

The "And How III," piloted by C. M. Mickler of New Orleans, docked at 2:15 p. m., to take on fuel, exactly 4 hours and 54 minutes after leaving the starting line.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 8.—Five outboard motor boats, with the head of Canal street here at 8 o'clock this morning in the New Orleans Outboard Motor Club's second annual 1153-mile race to St. Louis.

Racers entered in the competition for honors over the world's longest motor boat racing course were Charles Schokkumiller and Harry Burdgett of St. Louis, who will man the Baby Lee II; E. J. Giancloni Jr. of Baton Rouge, who will be accompanied by a mechanic; and Vivian G. C. Mickler of New Orleans, who will race alone in the And How III; Ed Higgins and Capt. M. M. Grush of New Orleans, who will race the Gen Bird, and Leslie Stovall of Monroe who will race the Candle craft.

Commissioner of Public Property Joseph T. Skelly acted as official starter with Commodore Urban C. Wilkinson as judge and timer.

St. Louis entrants will carry but one motor and will attempt to gain possession of the trophy held by Dr. Leroy of Memphis, who made the run in 27 hours and 37 minutes in 1928, to lower the record of the steamer Robert E. Lee.

A trophy will be presented by the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce to the first boat reaching the Missouri city.

The contestants will be checked in at the Eads Bridge in St. Louis by the following who have been contacted to act as judges and timing officials: Capt. John W. Moir, W. K. Kavanaugh, chairman of the Chamber's River Committee; Carl J. Bear, Commodore Ed C. Koehn of the St. Louis Yacht Club; and A. D. Frank, secretary of the St. Louis Yacht Club.

Match play, with eight golfers in each class, will start the week of Aug. 11. The first round match must be completed by Monday, Aug. 12; second round by Aug. 13, and the final by Sept. 1.

Besides the team trophy which is awarded to the foursome having the lowest aggregate score, there will be awards given to the low medalist, the winner in each class, and the runner up in the championship class.

This is the fourth year this tournament has been conducted, and it is under the auspices of the City-Wide Industrial Athletic Association.

Sport Salad

She's in Again.

DAME RUMOR, having nothing else to do, performed a quite remarkable exploit:

She sent the Browns and the Redbirds to Respective Milwaukee and Detroit.

And left St. Louis flat upon her back Without a baseball team, alas, alack!

For fancy flights iridescent dreams, Dame rumor has a most decided flair.

And, strange to say, the owners of the teams Were consulted in the mad affair.

Unless she blows a fuse or strips a gear The good old Dame will have a banner year.

Nice Work.

The transfer of the Browns and Cardinals at one fell swoop indicates that Dame Rumor has gone overboard with the heat.

Never in the history of organized baseball has St. Louis been without a major league team. Or, if you want to be cautious about it, a team in a major league.

Major league teams have been transferred to but not from St. Louis. We are here to stay. Watch us grow!

Theme Song.

THESE are old songs now of Uncle Sam Is that old tune "How Dry I Am."

This lack of rain gives me a pain. How dry I am! How dry I am! The sun is hot, the crops are shot. How dry I am! How dry I am!

No cooling breeze, no rain to cheer. Now stir the trees. Nobody knows how dry I am. And how.

Andrew F. Howe who recently won a $10,000 decision in a patent suit against the Commonwealth Steel Co. can now sing the latest popular ballad, "Give Tourist a Pat on the Back."

"Cap Company Files Bankruptcy Schedule."

Too much overhead, we take it.

"Thirty Rattlesnakes Craved by Heat Attack Turkeys."

Those snakes that crawled from their retreat And with the turkeys battled. Were either crazy with the heat Or very badly rattled.

Atta Way!

By way of showing their versatility the Cards won a game by one run Wednesday instead of losing by that margin.

It was a pleasant surprise to the many friends and well wishers of the Redbirds and fanned into life the dying pennant spark.

The heroes of the hour were George Watkins, who got a homer inside the park, and James Lindsey, who struck out Gabby Hartnett in the ninth with the bases loaded and the winning run on second.

At that, Joe McCarthy got a break. If Hack Wilson instead of Hartnett had been the victim of the third called strike with the bases full, Hack would have passed out the spot and Joe would have had to hit another boy to play center field.

You know, Hack doesn't take little episodes like that in a cool and collected manner even in the best of weather. But with the thermometer registering in the shade it would have been just too bad.

Alcibiades Has Impost of 130 Pounds in Oaks

LATONIA, Ky., Aug. 8.—Hal Price Headley's Alcibiades will pick up 130 pounds and compete against a crack field of fillies in the $10,000 added Latonia Oaks, one mile and one-quarter feature event here tomorrow. Eight thoroughbreds were named through the entry box today for the event.

The field includes Playfellow's Dream, Banner Bright, Alcibiades, Mantia, Thistle Ann, Quiver, Miss Bees and Elizabeth Kennedy.

Miss Bees and Elizabeth Kennedy, each having recently scored victories in races at the local track, Thistle Ann, which will carry 131 pounds, also is in good shape and ready for the grueling test.

Alcibiades, despite her high impost, probably will face the barrier as a 5 to 6 choice. She was recently shipped from Arlington Park and came here thoroughly fitted for such a test as the Latonia Oaks.

Headley supervised the final preparation of his crack filly. The daughter of Supreme was sent six furlongs over a muddy track and turned in an exceptional performance when she traversed the distance in 1:14 1/4. The half mile was done in 43 1/2.

Following the Oaks, Alcibiades will go to Reamont Farm, where she will run out for a short time. She will return for several important fall engagements.

ATHLETICS AND ROBINS KEEP UP WINNING STRIDE

By the Associated Press.

The league-leading Philadelphia Athletics and Brooklyn Robins were bowling along today at a pace that boded no good for the clubs that are doing the chasing in the current pennant races.

When a club that already is leading the pack by six and one-half games hands its nearest pursuer an artistic beating to the tune of 10-0, the supposition is that the team in front is going to prove pretty hard to overhauled.

That is exactly what the Athletics did yesterday at Shibe Park to the Washington Senators, 4-0, thanks to Jimmy Fox's thirty-first home run of the season in the sixth inning with two on base.

Pulling up on the Senators, the third place Yankees, still hitting and still dangerous, won their second straight victory over the Red Sox, 5-1, principally because of timely triples by Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig and the steady pitching of Ed Wells.

For the second time in two days, the Robins kept up their winning stride by a 4-0 count. This wound up the abbreviated series.

For most of the National League clubs the Pittsburgh outfit is anything but an easy mark, but the records seem to show that Uncle Wilbert Robinson's club has their number. The Robins now have beaten the Pirates 11 times and lost to them on only four occasions, having fared even better against them than against the Phillies.

Yesterday the Robins won in the ninth in spectacular style when Johnny Frederick tripled to drive home like Boone, who had batted for Vance and walked. Just to make the margin a little more comfortable, Wilbert Robinson's team proceeded to tally Frederick with a single. Watson Clark, pitching the ninth for the Robins, held the lead safe.

COZY DOLAN IS HELD BY GRAND JURY FOR DRY LAW VIOLATION

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Albert D. (Cozy) Dolan, former baseball player and coach with the New York and St. Louis National League teams, was held to the Federal grand jury today under $2500 bond in a charge of violating the national prohibition laws.

The charges were made following a raid several days ago on an exclusive night club conducted by the former ball player on the near North side.

ERNEST SCHULTZ, ILLINOIS FOOTBALL STAR, NAMED COACH AT MATTOON

MATTOON, Ill., Aug. 8.—Ernest Schultz, guard of the University of Illinois 1927 conference championship football team, will succeed James M. Culbertson as coach of Mattoon High School. It was announced here today.

Culbertson resigned to accept a position as coach at Grand Rapids (Mich.) school.

Schultz arrived here today from Houston, Tex., where he has coached for the last year. He will assume his new duties Sept. 2.

Veterans Win, 13 to 8.

The Veterans Hospital 13 defeated the Webster Groves 8 today, 13 to 8. Earl Rigdon, starred behind the bat for the winners. Sunday, the Veterans meet the Metrolite on the hospital grounds.

Boxing Tourney at Camp.

Benny Kessler, former district amateur boxing champion, will conduct a boxing tournament next week at Camp Cedar Crest, Hollister, Mo., where he is athletic director. The boys in camp are from St. Louis.

Sunny Jim Wants To Be Traded To Braves or Reds

J. BOTTOMLEY, the pride of Norfolk, and the smiling idol of St. Louis baseball fans for eight years, told the Post-Dispatch yesterday that he would like to be traded to some other city.

"I'm not scared on the old town," Jim explained, "but I believe it would do me good and help the team to give me a change of scenery. I'm ready for a shift. I don't know where you think they'll send me? Boston isn't a bad place. It's nice and cool up there and the good food after this hot spell. And say, tell me I wouldn't mind going to Cincinnati, say, there's a red-headed gal up there who'd knock your eye out."

Enthusiasm as the Cardinals own Jimmy "Whip" Collins, Rochester first baseman, who described by scouts as sure to be a star in the majors, Bottomley may be considered trading material. Collins is leading the International League in several departments of hitting. He is a turn around batter, an excellent fielder, and has been considered an understudy for Bottomley's job for a couple of years.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Exceeding the Limit.

IN these days of hair-splitting about weight, one reads with interest that Kid Chocolate weighed in, to his opponent, Kid Berg, yesterday.

There is a regulation on the New York books which reads that there shall not be a greater disparity than 10 pounds between any two fight principals.

In the 135-pound division such a concession is a tremendous one. That Kid Chocolate should have been able to hold his own under this handicap argues both willingness of spirit and a high order of ring merit.

Two bad that officials were divided as to the verdict, which Chocolate appeared to have earned, according to some news reports. The verdict spoiled his chance of winning FOUR ring titles—something considered impossible in pugilism.

He still can win three, and probably will, if he in succession gets matches with Bat Battalino, featherweight king, Benny Bass, lightweight champion, and Al Singer, lightweight leader.

Singer Is Happy. THE probabilities are against this, however. Singer is to meet the winner, Berg, and may suffer defeat. Chocolate owns a decision over Singer; since Berg was good enough to defeat the Negro, "form" argues that he will also defeat Singer and take the crown.

Between the two, however, Singer would rather face Berg because it is common knowledge that while Berg is a fast aggressive little fellow, his blows carry no weight. He is just a glove-throwing "chick" fighter, Eastern experts say, and wins by constant forcing, not by the weight of his punches.

It is to Laugh. WHEREVER the State laws require a majority decision of three officials in boxing bouts, strange things result. Last night two judges and a referee passed on the LaBarba-Mastro fight. The referee called it a draw, one judge named Mastro and one named LaBarba. Every possible shade of opinion was thus represented.

Too many cooks spoil the broth. The best plan of all seems to give the referee full authority in the ring to handle the fight and render decisions—then choose only competent officials to the staff.

Remember Connie Mack. THE Browns' officials have started a big drive toward building up their club. What will result no man can guess, except that in a general way improvement will result.

Clubs have started big building drives of this sort before with money to spend. But the building process is slow at best.

Take Connie Mack, who started in 1914 to get himself a team. He finished last for seven successive years! It was 15 years before he finally attained his goal.

Phil Ball has started several drives toward the top. He came within one game of the goal in 1922. Then he hammered at it with a fading team. Under Dan Howley, he started a new plan, but the club was not solidly grounded; one of his $75,000 was set off, others $25,000 were set off, others $25,000 were set off.

Now a new foundation must be laid. With LUCK and hard work the club may really improve during the life of Bill Killefer's contract, which has two more seasons to run.

Ball Player Crops Shortage. THE Browns' four minor league clubs may possibly furnish a first baseman, a shortstop and second sacker; but the bulk of the building will have to come from purchase or trade—and they are broken reads to rely on.

Good players ready for big league work are rare in the minors. Usually they are held up by other clubs that have interests in or working agreements with the clubs owing such players.

As for buying ready-made big league stars, it isn't being done. The crop of major league talent is as usual far below the demand—and so, what's a poor club owner going to do?

Dig up a winning team or take a loss, is the alternative in baseball today. A winner haven't be had by wishing, by hard work or by expenditure of mere money.

Hard to Believe. IN a year when all batters are smashing the apple, when home runs were never so easy, when more than 60 per cent of the regulars in the major leagues seem to be batting over .300, and when an average of about 15 runs per game is the rule, the Cardinals have achieved a remarkable record.

To date they have played 39 games in which the margin of victory or defeat was by a single run! Of the 39 the Cardinals have won 13 and lost 26—which may explain just why they haven't gone to the front.

A team that can't win a majority of its close finishes is doomed. Two clubs have put the Cardinals out of the running, Brooklyn and Pittsburgh, the former having won 10 and lost 4 in Cardinals contests, while the Pittsburgh series stands Cards 4, Pittsburgh 12.

If the locals could have broken even with these two clubs they would be seven full games nearer to the top, which would bring the team right up on the heels of the leaders.

MASTRO FOULED THREE TIMES BY LABARBA; FIGHT CALLED A DRAW

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Earl Mastro, Chicago's contender for the world featherweight title, today had a draw with Fidel LaBarba of Los Angeles—and three painful bruises on his right groin, as mementos of his latest encounter with the Californian.

Several times during 10 blithering rounds of fighting in the stadium last night, Mastro complained to Referee Phil Collins that he had been struck low.

At the finish Collins and the two judges presented all the variety of opinion possible, and averaged up to a draw. Collins voted for a draw, while one judge liked LaBarba and the other Mastro.

The crowd of 12,450 which paid about $24,000 to watch the two little Italians, received the verdict with boos and jeers, figuring that LaBarba had clearly established a winning margin during the first seven rounds. Ringside experts had the same opinion, but a medical examination revealed that Mastro had been struck low at least three times and was in real pain.

LaBarba Saw Hot Pace. Regardless of the fouls, the customers got all the action they looked for. The former flyweight titleholder set a hot pace from the start. Long left hooks found Mastro's head and body and the Chicago Italian was unable to use his own boxing skill.

Starting with the eighth round, however, he came up with a desperate rally and was more than holding his own at the finish.

inal contests, while the Pittsburgh series stands Cards 4, Pittsburgh 12.

If the locals could have broken even with these two clubs they would be seven full games nearer to the top, which would bring the team right up on the heels of the leaders.

DREWES ON WAY TO ANOTHER NET TITLE IN COUNTY

Ted Drewes reached the semifinal round of the St. Louis County tennis championship by defeating Herbert Weinstein on the Woodlawn Country Club courts yesterday afternoon. The score was 6-1, 6-2. While Drewes favored to win from Weinstein yesterday the easy victory was unexpected. Weinstein showed an improved game over last year. Drewes, former county champion, showed some of his old time form in winning yesterday. His control was good and he also had a variety of placements to win points.

Myron Hutchinson, Minneapolis player, also advanced to the semifinals in the singles by defeating Proctor Wright. The match required three sets, Hutchinson winning, 5-7, 6-3, 6-4. In the first set Wright played brilliant tennis but in the next two sets Hutchinson was too steady and accurate.

Braves Get But One Hit, Lose To Semi-Pro

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 8.—The Jamestown Spiders, semi-pro team, defeated the Boston Braves of the National League, 2 to 0 in an exhibition game here yesterday.

"Swat" Erickson, former Washington American League pitcher, hurled eight hitless innings only 28 batters facing him. In the ninth Richbourg rapped a single to right field for Boston's only safety of the game. Erickson fanned eight Braves and walked one. Score: Braves 000 000 000—0 1 1 Jamestown 000 000—2 0 1 Batteries—Hansen and Gowdy; Erickson and Lapp.

quired three sets, Hutchinson winning, 5-7, 6-3, 6-4. In the first set Wright played brilliant tennis but in the next two sets Hutchinson was too steady and accurate.

ELECTRIC TRADE INVESTIGATION BY GRAND JURY

Body to Take Up Charges of Conspiracy Among Contractors and Union to Restrain Competition.

STATE OUSTER SUIT
ALREADY PENDING

Circuit Attorney to Be Assisted in New Inquiry by Lawyers Who Conducted Former Examination.

The September term grand jury will investigate the practices of the Electrical Employers' Association and three affiliated organizations, now defendants in ouster proceedings brought last May by Attorney General Stratton Shertel, who charges the officers and members of the associations with conspiring with each other and with union representatives to regulate prices and restrain competition in St.
Louis.

John B. Edwards and Richmond
C. Coburn, who as Special Assistant Attorneys General conducted the inquiry that resulted in the filing of the quo warranto suit against the defendant organizations, will assist Circuit Attorney Miller in his effort to determine responsibility for the alleged conspiracy.

The action of the Attorney-General is directed against the Employers' Association, the Electrical Protective Association, the Electrical Licensing Bureau and the Electrical Approval Board. Those organizations, it is alleged, have created a combination to control the price of electrical wiring and to fix the price of articles bought and sold in the installation of electric wiring.

The working agreements accepted July 1, 1929, by electrical contractors and members of the electrical workers local union provide a $18-a-day wage scale, of which $12.48 a day per man is paid to the Electrical Protective Association for life and annuity insurance for the contractor and all his employees, including those not members of the union.

Testimony at a preliminary hearing and in depositions disclosed that since the new working agreements became effective, prices for electrical construction work have advanced from 50 to 100 per cent.

It was testified that contractors were coerced into joining the various associations through threats of not being supplied with work, and were compelled to abide by the various rules of the organizations.
Witnesses testified they were forced to get estimates on which to base a charge for services from the Electrical Licensing Bureau and to pay 2 per cent. of the gross charge to the bureau.

Several contractors testified that there was an agreement to charge a minimum of 23 1/3 per cent profit for all work.
It has been charged that the new working agreements were foisted upon the contractors and the local union by Orville E. Jennings, international union representative, and Chester J. Chaplin, a contractor, who it was said "run the industry in St. Louis." There are many instances since the new contracts went into effect where men have been called off jobs when the contractors were charged with violation of the regulations.
The hearing on the quo warranto proceeding awaits appointment by the State Supreme Court of a commissioner.

'WOMAN' TRAIN-HOPPER

A MAN IN DISGUISE

Mystery of the Back-Slipping Guest of the Missouri Pacific Cleared Up.

A mystery which has been pussling Missouri Pacific freight engineers and firemen for several weeks was cleared up last night, with the arrest at Oakwood station and Big Bend boulevard, Webster Groves, of a man attired as a woman.

During the past three weeks Police Chief McDonnell has received more than 24 reports from train-men that a woman had swung on their engine as they pulled a freight train up the grade east of Webster Groves. They declared that the woman slipped both fireman and engineer on the back. In each instance, cried hysterically and jumped from the train.

Chief McDonnell announced that his prisoner of last night had admitted he got a thrill out of hopping freight trains in women's clothing and slapping the trainmen.
He said he was Joseph Ochoy, 35 years old, 5137 Drexel avenue. He is unmarried. In his automobile policemen reported they found women's clothing.

BUOY DESIGNED TO RESCUE MEN IN SUBMARINE TESTED

Is Invention of Spanish Officer Proposed Fleet Navy of His Country Adopt It.

By the Associated Press.

CARTAGENA, Spain, Aug. 8.—
The Ministry of Marine announced that a submarine rescue device invented by Capt. Arturo Genova has proved successful in tests.

Capt. Genova, who is commander of a submarine division with headquarters in Cartagena, took part in the tests. His device is described as a type of "submarine elevator" in which a single man is sheltered each time that it rises to the surface. It is said to be a special type of buoy in which a member of a midget submarine crew can find refuge. The buoy rises to the surface, the man is taken aboard the rescue ship, and the buoy is hauled back to the submarine.

Two series of tests were conducted during successive weeks.
The inventor and a machinist were taken from the submarine "U. 2" in the harbor of this city.

Officials are seeking to have the device adopted by the Spanish Navy.

WOULD FORCE MODERNIZATION OF CHICAGO RAIL TERMINALS

Chicago Tribune Files Complaint
With the Illinois Commerce Commission.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Thirty-one railroads, operating trains into Chicago, will be made defendants in a complaint to be filed today before the Illinois Commerce Commission in behalf of the Chicago Tribune Co., asking for modernization and expansion of terminal facilities in the city.

The complaint asks the commission to require each defendant to submit a report of its plans for terminal enlargement and for electrification of lines through the suburban areas. Each defendant would be required, under the plan, to file within 30 days a report in detail as to sums necessary to modernize existing stations or to build new ones.

The Tribune asks that, after hearing and investigation, the commission determine the equipment and services to be furnished by each road, and order such changes to be made within a specified time.

FLIES 'BLIND' FROM CHICAGO TO DETROIT WITH 11 IN PLANE Transport Pilot, Sealed in Cabin, Guided by Beams and Compass Only.
DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 8.—A transport pilot brought a tri-motor plane with 10 passengers from Chicago to Detroit last night flying "blind," guided only by his instruments and directed by radio beams. The pilot, W. E. Larned, of the South Airplane, was sealed up in his cabin in front of the plane while over the Municipal Airport in Chicago, leaving only a small space for his observer to watch for approaching planes. Keeping his plane balanced by instruments, he guided his course by a Federal Government air mail radio beam as far as Laporte, Ind., from there he flew by compass until he picked up a directional beam from the Ford airport near Jackson, Mich. The cabin was sealed until he arrived above the Detroit landing field.

Larned said the flight demonstrated the effectiveness of instrument and radio beam flying for large cross-country passenger planes.

British troops were in action today against Afridi tribesmen advancing a Peshawar.

The strength of the horde of Afghan warriors was estimated variously at 5000 to 10,000. The fighting thus far, two advance guard encounters, had not been of a general nature and the casualties were not divulged. In this city it is thought that only a few on their side have been wounded.

A defensive line of troops has been formed between the city and the advancing enemy. Heavy defenses are encamped along the edge of a barren area over which the tribesmen would have to travel any attempted assault.

British airplanes, said to number about 50, many of them big bombers and all equipped with war equipment, were held in readiness sweep over the opposing forces any considerable movement was detected by the scouts who are constantly patrolling the area by air.

While no actual fear for the safety of the city was felt, the military and civil authorities were ready for any emergency.

The tribesmen's activities were reported to be due to the Afghan League of the Burhanis, which was combined with rumors circulated by the new League of Youth Peshawar. Both of these organizations supposedly have communistic connections and are said to be responsible for the persistent circulation of rumors among the tribesmen that Peshawar and the surrounding districts are in the hands of National Congress members and are undefended.

The Afridis are the most powerful of the Pathan tribes, which live in the mountainous borderland where Khyber Pass leads to Kabul.

Utilities Follow 'Heads I Win, Tails You Lose Policy' With Public,
City Counselor Muench Declares

Discusses Holding Companies and Other Dodges to Avoid Regulation in Address at Charlottesville, Va.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Aug. 8.—
Julius T. Muench, City Councilor of St. Louis, delivered an address today before the Institute of Public Affairs of the University of Virginia. He discussed the effect of court decisions which have deprived cities of control over public utilities, and the devices by which the utility companies circumvent the control attempted by state commissions.

"If present practices are permitted to continue," he predicted,
"our utility situation will soon become a private one as soon as the public ownership, without the benefits of either."

"There is no incentive to efficient operation," he went on, "because the commissions and the courts are always being called upon for help when things go wrong;
and when things look up, all profits are the private property of the utility, or of a holding company. It is a case of 'tails, you lose; heads, we win.'"

In Good Times and Bad.

"The operators emphasize the public character of the business when they are in a difficult position and need help, but the business becomes a private one as soon as they become prosperous. When the representatives of the public seek information to determine the propriety of a reduction in rates, they are met with such phrases as 'managerial discretion,' 'claims of warrant of necessity to inquire into dealings with extra-state subordinates or holding companies, and other objections, designed to prevent the fullest disclosure of what the public is entitled to know."

"Favorite devices to keep the return below the allowed rate are holding companies, with their charges for supervision; subsidiary or associated companies, organized to absorb economies in operation, and high salaries to officers."

Muench reviewed decisions of the Missouri Supreme Court abridging the control of the City of St. Louis over street car fares and rates for electric current; the failure of the Kansas City attempt to control street car fares; and the decision of the United States Supreme Court upholding the theory of "reproduction cost" as a basis for utility rates. He quoted at length the dissenting opinion of Justice Brandeis in the Southwestern Bell case, in which Justice Brandeis held that the "reproduction cost" method was "legally and economically unsound."

"Representatives of the public, who have had to deal with utility matters," Muench said, "will ultimately endorse the recommendation that the Court lay down a rule which will permit the establishment of a fair rate that is definite, stable, and readily ascertainable, with the emphasis on stability."

"Wastefulness, Extravagance."

"The utter wastefulness and extravagance of a renewed valuation every time application for a change in rates is made, is one of the worst features of present-day utility regulation; yet, this cannot be avoided, so long as we are bound by the rule that the rate must be a fair one as applied to the value of the property at the time."

"The public needs utilities that will render the most efficient service possible at the lowest possible rates. They should be conceived, licensed, operated and patronized primarily as a community necessity.
The utilities are entitled to a fair return on the capital fairly invested by the promoters, borrowed within proper limits from the investing public. The greater the certainty of their return, the lower the rate should be, as in the case of Government securities."

"What the public actually gets,
in many instances, is a utility op-

FAMILIES SUFFER

About 12 Pct. of Country's Animal Population in Dry Area, He Says Reports Indicate.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—President Hoover said today he would call the Governors of states most affected by the drought together on Thursday of next week to discuss methods of alleviating distress from the dry spell.

The President said preliminary reports indicated that approximately 1,000,000 farm families were affected by the drought and about 12 per cent of the whole animal population of the country.
Mr. Hoover said the American people should be glad to take care of their own countrymen in time of distress. He added that the first duty was to give assurance that this aid would be forthcoming and then to set up the machinery to provide the necessary help.

In addition to calling the conference of Governors Mr. Hoover instructed acting Chairman Hicknell of the Red Cross to have his organization stand by to relieve any possible human suffering.

"The situation is one to cause a great deal of concern," the President said in a statement to newspapers, "but it must be borne in mind that the drought has mainly affected animal feed, the bulk of the direct human food production of the country being abundantly in hand."

President's Statement.

The text of the President's statement follows:

"As a result of conferences of the last few days which embrace the Cabinet, members of the Farm Board and the Farm Loan Board, together with Presidents Thompson, Taber and Huff of the farm organizations, I have decided to ask the Governors of the states most acutely affected by the drought to meet with us in Washington next Thursday in order to consider definite plans for organization of relief.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley Comments.
 To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I HAVE been told of an excellent editorial in your paper and a fine story in regard to the attempt to secure by administrative regulation what Congress has refused to allow for the last six years; namely, to permit the unlimited introduction of corn sugar into certain manufactured food products without statement on the label.

I certainly rejoice in the stanch attitude of your paper.

ANNA KELTON WILEY.
 (Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley).

As to Lake Division.

RELATIVE to your editorial of Aug. 1, entitled "Low Water and High."

Under the old regime as much lake water was diverted when it was not needed for navigation as was diverted when it was needed. If any diversion is permissible it surely should be regulated for the needs of navigation. It is clear that no diversion is needed in the cold months of the year because there is little, if any, navigation and little, if any, evaporation.

The Illinois River Valley was drowned for years by this diversion and yet it is true that the gates today at Beardstown stand exactly at the same elevation it stood on Dec. 18, 1932, and in that particular year occurred the highest water on the Illinois River known up to that time. The trouble with excessive diversion has been that it filled the storage capacity of the Valley so that when the rains descended and the floods came, the storage was used up before the flood started. No one objects to waterways or navigation, but the damage from unnecessary diversion was greater than the benefits to be derived from waterway transportation because it destroys the very territory tributary to the waterway itself. If diversion is ever again allowed it should be seasonal instead of heavy diversion when least needed and moderate diversion when most needed.

Again, it is questionable whether the Congress of the United States, or the Legislature of a state, has any constitutional right to authorize the diversion of water from one watershed into another. During the greatest drought in the history of this country is hardly the time to say off-hand that lack of diversion has ruined waterway transportation. Barages were stuck on sandbars before the heavy dry spells when there was virtually unrestricted diversion.

IF THE Public Service Co. wishes to do something to make its street cars more popular, I suggest that it change the back supports on the side and end seats. Most of these back supports are made of strips of hardwood, and are a terror to sensitive people. Whenever I have to lean against these strips, I have to place my hand behind my back or I will be tortured during the ride. This may seem a small matter, but as all automobile seats are comparatively comfortable, it seems that our public service vehicles ought to be more up to date. The wooden strips can be removed, as they are worse than useless, but some scheme of upholstering these seats would be advisable.

DAVID REISS.

Relieving the Farmer.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE Secretary of Agriculture and the chairman of the Farm Board (I do not either one ever stepped on a spade to till the ground) are touring the West to induce farmers to raise smaller crops. If this dry spell continues, I am afraid they will run out of gas, return to Washington, make a trip to the Rapidan, consult the trees and return some time before next November and advise the farmer to raise nothing at all.

One branch of the Government is trying smaller crops. Another branch is spending millions on drainage districts to reclaim farm land. More will be spent in building dams for irrigating purposes. If the party in power at Washington thinks it is advisable to raise smaller crops, why spend money on reclaiming more land for farm purposes?

The farmers would not need any Federal help if they got at least half what the Government today is doing for the Eastern manufacturer.

CURTAILING OUTPUT.

Representatives of British and Dutch rubber growers are holding conferences in an attempt to reach an agreement for the curtailment of output. The decline in American automobile production has seriously affected the crude rubber industry on the other side of the world. Rubber stocks have accumulated and prices have fallen to a point which is below the cost of production. Co-operation in restricting production is envisaged as the only remedy.

The British and Dutch experience with rubber is paralleled by American experience with wheat. Surplus stocks and low prices, says our Farm Board, are to be prevented only by the reduction of acreage. But it is held by others that reduction by America, alone, would serve only to increase the world price and stimulate production in Australia, Argentina, Canada and elsewhere. The control of output, if it is to be effective, must be on an international scale, says Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, who asks the President to call a conference of wheat-producing nations to bring about a world-wide limitation of acreage.

Last year we were hearing the same story about oil. Directors of the American Petroleum Institute and the British Shell interests agreed to check the storage of surplus oil above ground by drastically curtailing production. Despite the Attorney-General's threat of an anti-trust prosecution, the Federal Oil Conservation Board gave them its blessing and Secretary Wilbur suggested treaties to curb output among chief oil producing states as a means of circumventing the law. Conferences of Governors, oil executives and representatives of the Federal administration were held in a futile attempt to achieve this end.

The deliberate control of American output for the purpose of controlling price has long been successfully practiced in many fields. The California Fruit Growers Exchange has employed it for many years in the marketing of citrus fruits. In marketing its peach crop, too, California is exercising control. The State has grown enough peaches this year to pack 18 to 20 million cases.

The cling peach control committee of growing and canning organizations, banking interests and representatives of the State Department of Agriculture have agreed that only 13,000,000 cases will be packed. No attempt will be made to harvest 170,000 tons of the crop. The Federal Farm Board has adopted the same policy in rendering assistance to the producers of other crops. Co-operative organizations are formed and public money lent to enable them to withhold goods from the market in an effort to increase the price. The Farm Board has just made such a loan to California grape growers. It has organized a co-operative association of growers whose members contribute $1.50 for every ton marketed, to be used to take surplus grapes and grape products off the market. Other nations have adopted a similar policy. Chile has a nitrate monopoly and shares in its profits through the imposition of export duties. The Japanese Government derives profits from a camphor monopoly. Germany made money before the war through its control of the supply of potash. Brazil has long limited coffee sales so as to support coffee prices. Great Britain, for a time, successfully restricted rubber output and boosted the price of that product.

Calvin Coolidge, in one of his recent dispatches, wrote that all such attempts to control prices must fail. It is not possible, he said, to repeal the law of supply and demand, of cause and effect or of action and reaction. But price control, in fact, has often succeeded, and it has succeeded not by repealing the law of supply and demand but by observing it. Brazilian coffee valorisation did keep up coffee prices until Colombian and Central American growers came into the field. British rubber restriction did boost prices until it excited increasing Dutch competition. The Chilean nitrate monopoly enjoyed enormous profits until other nations undertook the preparation of synthetic and by-product nitrogens.

Monopoly control, of course, must cover the majority of the important producers if it is to be effective; but control is not permanently defeated as new competition arises. Upon the contrary, it is increased by extending the area over which it operates. Rubber restriction is now attempted jointly by the British and the Dutch. German potash control, once threatened by the new French mines in Alsace, has now become a joint German-French control. Agreements have already been made between Chile and the German and British manufacturers of nitrogens. An international compact for coffee control by Brazil, Colombia and the Central American states is probably only a matter of time.

In all these developments two tendencies are clearly to be seen at work. Monopoly is replacing competition. The entire Farm Board program obviously abandoned our traditional reliance on competition and moves boldly toward deliberate monopolistic control. Whether he knows it or not, economic forces are conspiring to destroy the individualism and the individualism of the American farmer. Unwittingly he is being driven toward world monopoly and economic internationalism.

We thank U. S. Meteorologist Roscoe Nunn for his heartening discourse on ways the record-breaking heat and drought here may be broken, if and when. We, who had begun to doubt, rejoice that indeed there are ways. Now, Mr. Weather Man, the means!

Bupharest (population, 850,000) has asked for bids on a subway system to serve the city and its suburbs. St. Louis, please note.

GOOD WORK REWARDED.

That republicans are not ungrateful is abundantly proved by the re-nomination of Carter M. Buford for State Senator from the Twenty-fourth Missouri District.

Mr. Buford attempted to obstruct in the last session of the Legislature bills curbing salary buying and reducing the rates upon small loans. Ordinarily, bills attacking such powerful interests would have been quietly suffocated in committee; but Mr. Buford was mad enough to force them out into the open. The result was that this became the greatest matter in the legislative session. People like Senator Buford of the Cape Girardeau district were aroused and went to the front for the bills. There was great public clamor, Buford fled, the bills passed.

Now the Senator has his reward. His was a selfish service, but the voters of the Twenty-fourth District overlooked that. It was a service, and the people are too hungry for service to be squeamish about how it is rendered. Mr. Buford will probably ably be elected. Perhaps he will overdo his obstructionist tactics in some other important field and we will get another reform.

THE LAW'S DELAY.

Emphatically right and proper it is that the State in its might is compelled to comply in strictest detail with its own rules, the law, in order to deprive its least citizen of life or liberty. Penal statutes are construed in favor of the presumed innocence of one accused of crime. The individual's rights must be safeguarded from official oppression—this is the guiding principle.

But what a playground of sophistry these fair and just circumstances make for the lawyer! Justice goes hang and reason flies to pot. We refer to the case of the three men whom once upon a time Sam Scortina identified and accused as the ones who kidnapped him and held him for ransom. First, their extradition to Illinois was blocked by former Circuit Attorney Howard Sidener on the ground that the date of the crime as given in the Illinois requisition was not the date in Scortina's sworn complaint. New papers were made out to meet the objection. Now Sidener is continuing his dilatory campaign by pressing for a writ of habeas corpus, attacking the Missouri holding charge against these men. And after this, perhaps, there will be a flyspeck on the record that looks like a comma, and the flyspeck will have to be argued away.

Meantime, Sam Scortina has been scared to death. He has completely repudiated his identification of the three men and wants only to be allowed to return to Italy before someone kills him in these law-abiding United States. This is truly an edifying mess. What the remedy at law is, we do not know. It seems to us, however, that since July 12, the date of the kidnapping, not one answer on merit or to the point has been made in behalf of the three accused. Their rights must be fully protected, yes; but let them meet the main issue, here or in Illinois, and speedily, or let us all take a tip from Sam Scortina and fly for our lives to Mussolini-land.

A New York dancing teacher has been ordered to cease advertising that his school taught Presidents of the United States to dance. He should have known that only party chairmen can do that.

THE EXIT OF CLAUDIUS.

Claudius Huston has finally retired from the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee, with his self-esteem in full bloom. No victim of piratical vengeance ever walked the plank with prouder stride. How did they feel, those committeemen, as their chieftain uttered his valedictory? Did they feel as the envious Casca felt, as the lean and hungry Caesar felt, as that champion unco gild of the Pagan League, Brutus, felt on that messy occasion when Caesar tolled off the thrusters? Or did they frankly yawn their long-awaited relief?

"No man in political life," intoned Claudius, "has ever been subject to more unjust and unwarranted attacks." Both the sentiment and the phrasing have a familiar ring. This is the swan song the lame duck has sung along all the stretches of politics. This is the showman's alibi of the misfit. This is the hackneyed buncombe of the ages.

After his brief strutting of authority Huston disappears into the "penumbra of innocuous desuetude" where the President discovered him. He will be remembered vaguely as one of Mr. Hoover's unfortunate proteges. His passing is the first rift in the gloom since the Grand Old Party intrusted its destiny to the Engineer.

A football game next Thanksgiving between Dr. Woodcock's school for prohibition enforcement and the Keeley Institute would draw an amused crowd.

AUGUST AND NOVEMBER.

Now that the politicians have said what they think of the Bar Association's candidates for municipal offices, the matter can be rested until it is cool enough for the people to venture an opinion. It smacks of midsummer madness to carry 37 out of 29 wards with the temperature at 102, as Harry P. Rosencan did in winning the Republican nomination for Prosecuting Attorney. After all, the office is important; and Mr. Rosencan will need a lot of that energy when the people are faced by the certainty that he is unfit for it. It was too much to hope that the voters would see this with their eyes full of steam.

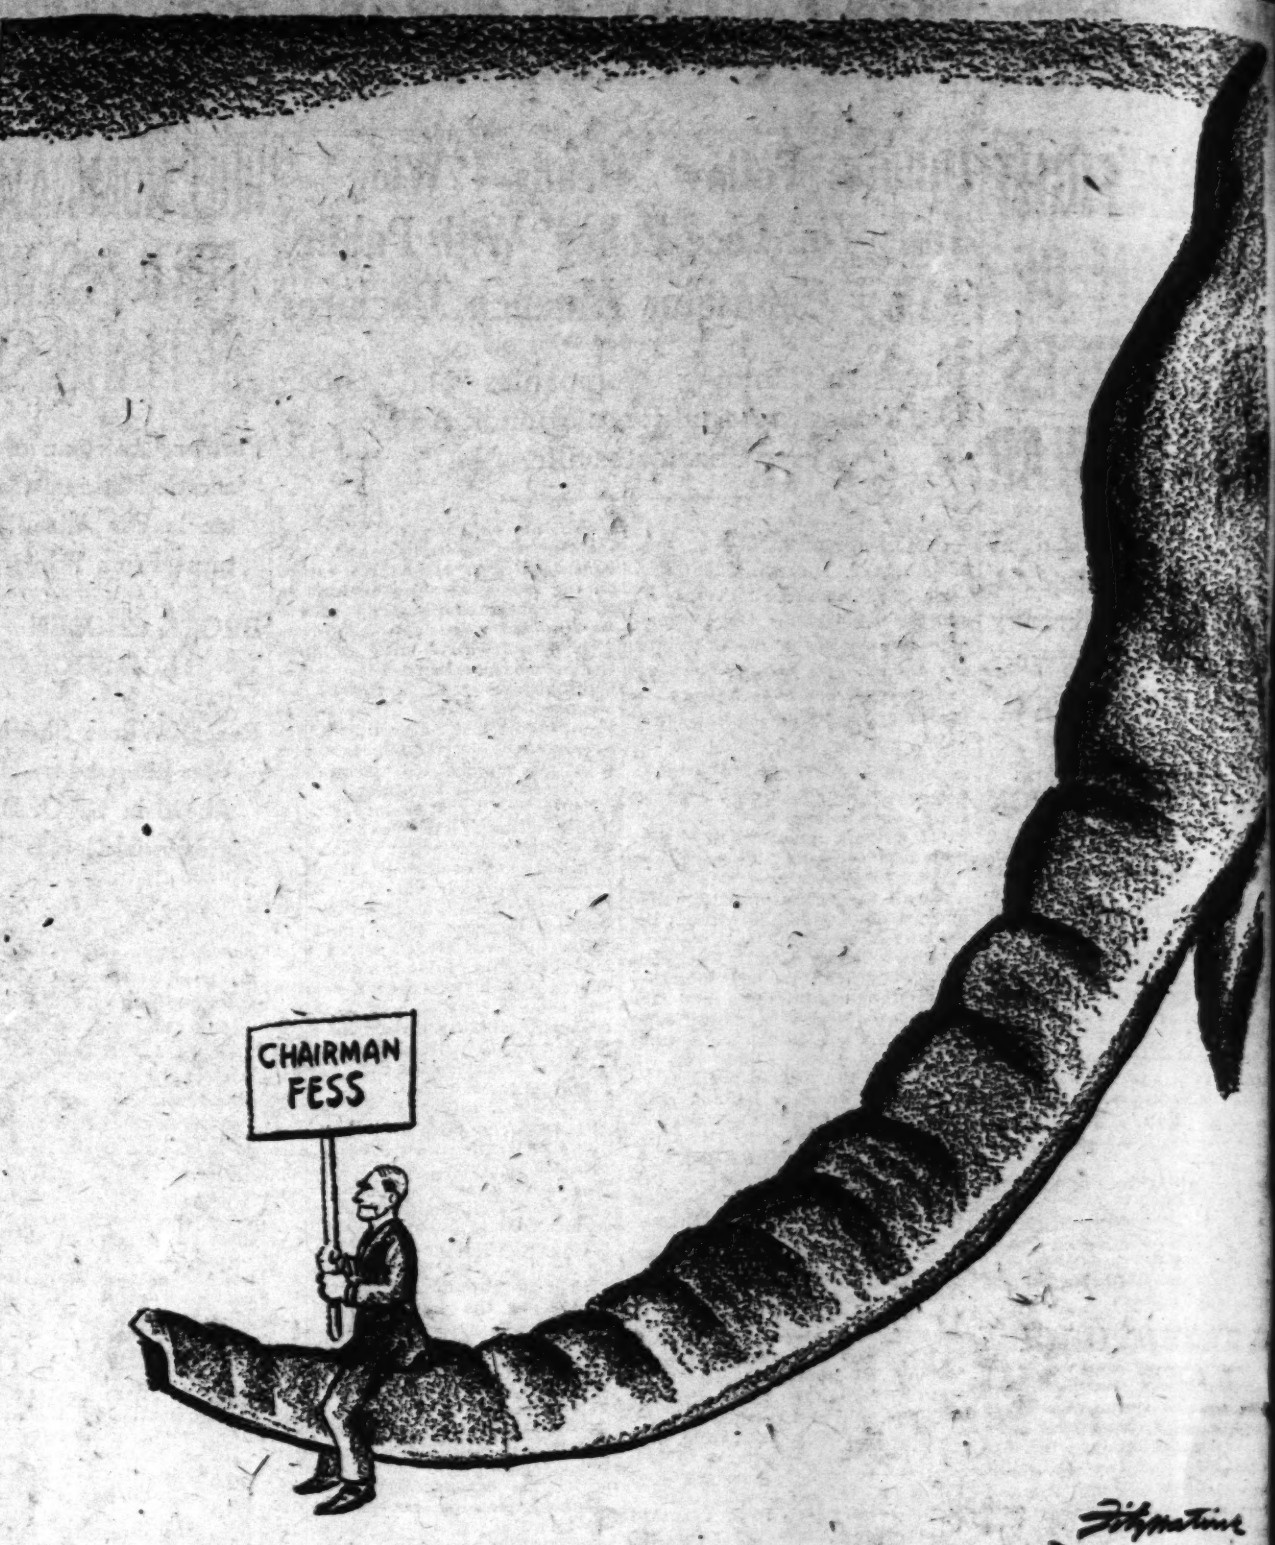

As for the rest of the candidates, the community will look to the Bar Association to tell it who ought to be judges. The association rendered this public service two years ago, and it is heartening to observe that those who did not receive its endorsement have never shown any great strength at the polls. The lawyers of any city are the best judges of the qualifications of those who aspire to the bench, and they can if they will preserve the integrity of the courts. Happily, the St. Louis Bar Association realizes this and does its utmost to preserve the integrity of the courts. In the primaries of this week the Republican City Committee disagreed with two men on the association's ticket, but the wisdom of those substitutions remains to go before the great jury of the people. St. Louis can be made another Chicago. It is for us to say, but no community can grapple with such vital problems when the weather is the hottest in our history.

November will be a good time to consider what kind of city ours is to be, whether a rendezvous for gangs, racketeers and corruptionists, or a place in which life and property are secure. That is the first duty of any metropolitan community, and it must be ours. When "the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock" will be an excellent time to review what the politicians did when the asphalt was sticky.

KIND WORDS CAN NEVER DIE.

What with being held responsible by millions of people for the hot weather, the drought, unemployment, business depression, low wheat prices, the tariff, poor liquor, Claudius Huston and all in the tank, Mr. Hoover would find life unbearable did he not have a few trusty, tried admirers on whose words of cheer and encouragement he can depend. Two of these have recently put their opinions of the executive on record for public consideration, and how they must have cheered the long, hot White House afternoons. First, William Marsh Jr., 11-year-old author of the latest Hoover biography, said: "He is a good man and everybody knows it." And second, the winsome and blonde Beatrice Lee, winner of the beauty contest at Miami, Fla., after visiting the White House, announced: "Mr. Hoover is a very fine man."

The college, where the older humanities still enjoy sanctuary, if not from mutilation, at least from outright massacre, has also damaged their cause along with its own reputation otherwise than by tinkering with the curriculum. In contrast with its serious activities, often admirably performed, it has become also a post-scholastic playground, a gaudy scene of unduly protected and demonstrative immaturity.

ON TO

Higher Education for the Minority

Evolution of college from seat of culture to training ground for professions mainly the result of "New Education"; all branches, by this fallacious theory, viewed as equal; diverting "outside" activities also encouraged; yet in earnestness of a large part of students rests chief hopes for rehabilitation of scholastic ideals.

Written for the Post-Dispatch by Otto Heller, Dean of the Graduate School, Washington University.

MOST of the real shortcomings of the college may fairly be traced to that enormous folly which 30 years ago swept the country under the name of the "New Education." Only after its chief apostles came to realize the error of their ways and sought cover from ultimate personal consequences by deserting pedagogy for psychology or philosophy, did the system begin to "do its damndest."

The results of the New Education are clearly manifest in many adverse, and may be a few auspicious, signalings today. Other collegiate ills have really no etiology at all, ensuing suddenly upon a hasty adjustment to the tremendous increase in the student enrollment. As the bulk of the attendance is made up of young men and women who go to college without scrupulous consideration of their mental temper or their ideal aspirations, but simply in order to fit themselves for a career, the college has shown itself quite plastic to the presumable requirements of their future callings. Its premises have been hurriedly altered to suit many new tenants.

On these perpetual shifts and make-shifts, rational sanction has been bestowed by specious re-definitions of the lingering concepts that formerly served to orientate higher education. All this ended in audacious revisions of the theoretical objectives of education.

The New Education was chiefly inspired by a certain calamitous notion about the educative equivalence of all branches of knowledge, which had swum into the ken of empiricists and experimenters toward the end of the "democratic" century of blessed memory. This notion was promulgated raised into a maxim and soon transposed from the level of the common school to that of the college and the university.

For the old humanistic disciplines, heretofore sacrosanct to the academic tradition, this meant a relegation to their ancient place of honor and privilege. The academic business was reorganized for miscellaneous production, but because of its advertising value, the good old "humanities" trademark was retained, in the hope that it would create good will for the new line of goods. There is, for example, a certain institute devoting its work exclusively to research in economic, political science, commerce and finance, yet calling itself a school of the humanities, because, doubtless on the ground that such researches are profitable concerns for humanity—although its compass of studies is so narrow that neither history nor languages and literature are represented therein.

The college, where the older humanities still enjoy sanctuary, if not from mutilation, at least from outright massacre, has also damaged their cause along with its own reputation otherwise than by tinkering with the curriculum. In contrast with its serious activities, often admirably performed, it has become also a post-scholastic playground, a gaudy scene of unduly protected and demonstrative immaturity.

Whereas the other schools of the university have strongly fenced their area of work against dangerous intrusions, the college tolerates, nay, specifically features, the sundry and various organized perillities that divert student life from its central aim. It hastens to fitter away his time; one who steadfastly refuses to put the "jaunty 'student activities'" on the same level of importance with his studies is branded as a "dirty grind." The criticism of its college spoken by Woodrow Wilson is as apposite today as it was at the outset of that great man's career: "The side-shows are so numerous, so diverting, so important, if you will—that they have swallowed up the circus, and those who perform in the main tent must whistle for their audience."

To ride against the trend of the times puts one under instant suspicion as an inveterate orthodox and a straggler from a dead but incompletely buried past. Hence I hasten to certify myself a fully naturalized citizen of the twentieth century. I cheerfully acquiesce in the structural modifications of society that have taken place, and, further, I assent to any educational reforms impelled by experience or prophetic wisdom and design for the lasting good of the greatest number. In my allegiance to the "New Humanism" I prefer swinging a free lance to accepting a commission under the command of Messrs. Paul Elmer More, Irving Babbitt, and their fellow stay-at-homes of the glorious eighteenth century.

Though I do regard the college as the central prop of the entire scholastic framework, I would far rather see it pulled to the ground than have it preserved as a cabinet of incrustated views of life, a museum of faded sentiments, of ideals without verity for the individual or for society. Were I to behold the college as a stronghold of mental inertia against the social momentum, not only should I abandon its quixotic defense but gladly join in its wreckage. Is it true, as we are given to understand by men of widest importance and influence, like Thomas Edison and Henry Ford, that the college even as remodeled today is still a center of "bloodless," "effete," "useless," "windy" education? And is the crowded condition of its halls really to be explained by a selfish desire of young people for a few years' stay of account from the sentence of hard work for life?

It is my deliberate and well advised opinion that such is not the case. Most of those who go to college expect a genuine equivalent for their outlay of funds and time and labor, and I am also convinced that, with full discount for all imperfections in the service, they still get good return in values. There are enough students who go to college for good and sufficient reasons to justify its existence as long as it is willing and able to give them what they want. For the rehabilitation of the college, I rely more on the students themselves than on those who now govern their destinies.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.

"EMBASSY ROW"—that swager of the capital at the crest of the Hill on Sixteenth street—is holding its own despite the encroachments of other parties of the city.

Some thought, when King George came a site far out Massachusetts avenue to the British Embassy, that other nations would follow suit. Some have. Japan has begun work on its new diplomatic home near the British Embassy. A magnificent building to cost more than $100,000, containing some 40 rooms and featuring a Japanese garden, is to be erected.

Norway has decided to locate its Legation two blocks from the Japanese Embassy. It will be in the style of the English Renaissance. But old "Embassy Row" can boast of its caste.

HERE the Spanish, the Cuban, the Italian, the Persian, the Polish and Lithuanian missions reside. And in the same cluster are to be found the French, the Dutch, the Mexican and others.

Soon there is to rise in this neighborhood a structure which will rival that of the British Embassy for beauty and grandeur. On Sixteenth at Euclid, a hundred feet from the present Embassy, France is to build her new diplomatic home in Washington. Its design will be of the eighteenth century classic style, will cost in all $600,000, and probably will be ready for occupancy by 1932.

IT IS to be a three-story structure, with 14 or 15 rooms on each floor. Its magnificent entrance hall to the Embassy two stories will be placed—one of Washington, the other of Lafayette.

"Embassy Row"—now one of the show places of the capital—not so many years ago was an open field. Mrs. John B. Henderson, who lives at "Boundary Castle" nearby, developed most of the neighborhood. She and her husband, the late Senator Henderson, built that home on a site which then was the city's boundary line. On the Senator's death, Mrs. Henderson built a number of Embassy buildings and sold them to various Governments.

HORUS OF 40 NEGROES TO BE IN "SHOW BOAT"

Special Back Stage Accommodations Arranged; Louis Beppe to Sing "Ol' Man River."

A cluster of dressing tents has been added to the backstage lot of the Municipal Theater to accommodate the elaborate two-week presentation of "Show Boat," which begins Monday night.

For the production of the spectacular Ziegfeld operetta, Milton Shubert, general manager of production, has added to his regular chorus of 54, a chorus of 40 Negro singers, a Negro dancing unit of 16, and the Flak Olette from Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn., one of the leaders in preserving and developing the traditional Negro spiritual and jubilee songs.

Among additions to the principal cast will be Mammy Janny, who played Quente with the Ziegfeld company, and Louis Beppe, Negro singer, who will sing "Ol' Man River."

To accommodate the bulky scenery of the production every bit of scenery from past shows of this date has been moved from the stage storerooms. After Sunday evening's performance of "The Student Prince" the scenery in use next week will follow the rest to the lot.

Artisans are still at work on the set on the Municipal Theater's new revolving stage. Among the most impressive of the sets is that of the Cotton Blossom, and of the Chicago Midway Plaisance at the World's Fair of 1932.

Costumes in the original Ziegfeld production will be used in the Municipal Theater presentation. There were 57 chorus people in the first showing, while there will be 100 in the St. Louis presentation. Additional costumes have been made by the Municipal Opera's wardrobe department.

INVENTOR OF CALCULATOR DIES

Dr. Eugene Felt Succumbs to Heart Attack.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—Dorr Eugene Felt, inventor of a calculating machine, died yesterday following a heart attack. Felt was born on a farm near Beloit, Wis., in 1852. His education took him through one year of high school. In 1882 he came to Chicago as a journeyman machinist and two years later, in 1884, he built the prototype of the modern keyboard calculating machine. The machine was made of a macaroni box, some staples and a rubber band. His tools were a knife and a pair of pliers. The first machine was sold in 1887 after Felt had organized the Felt & Tarant Manufacturing Co.

With money and leisure, Felt became an inveterate globe trotter, a student of sciences and a writer on labor and kindred industrial subjects.

FRESH FRUIT SALADS USED FOR DESSERT

Modern Custom Sanctions Serving Fruit Salad for the Dessert Course.

The appearance of fresh fruits in market will remind the housewife that delicious dessert salads may be made with fresh fruit combinations.

It is becoming quite the thing to serve these fruit salads at informal luncheons as they combine the salad and the dessert course thus simplifying the service of informal meals.

Several charming and attractive dessert salads may be prepared from these recipes.

Tulip Salad. Cut the top off of as many oranges as there are persons to serve. Make five or six cuts down sides of fruit so that pulp may be removed and the orange shell then shaped to look like petals of a tulip. Place the orange tulips on glass salad plates and refill shells with the orange pulp mixed with diced pineapple and quartered marshmallows. Serve with golden salad dressing.

Golden Salad Dressing. Use three eggs, one-half cup pineapple juice, one-third cup orange juice, one-third cup lemon juice, one-fourth cup sugar and one-half teaspoon salt. Beat the eggs slightly. Add the fruit juices, sugar and salt. Cook in double boiler stirring constantly until mixture becomes thick.

Sunshine Salad. One and one-half cups sliced bananas (or any other fruit such as apples, pears, peaches or pineapples), one and one-half cup orange segments, one-third cup seedless raisins and marshmallows. Mix the fruit, add marshmallows cut in cubes and serve on a bed of shredded lettuce with golden salad dressing. Garnish each service with a whole marshmallow.

Summer Salad. Arrange orange sections on salad plates, flower-petal fashion (using seven or eight sections to a plate). Sprinkle lightly with powdered sugar. Center with teaspoon of jelly, shredded dates or seedless raisins, as desired. Serve with cream mayonnaise dressing.

THESE PICNIC DELICACIES ARE ALWAYS APPRECIATED

Slip a Crisp Leaf of Lettuce Into Each Sandwich Before Serving.

The list of picnic delicacies may be extended through the inclusion of these two attractive sandwiches.

Chicken Salad Rolls. Mix equal parts of cooked chicken and crisp celery, cut in pieces, with salad dressing. Cut small rolls in halves and remove soft centers. Spread with softened butter. Put a tablespoon of the chicken salad in center. Press two halves together and wrap each one in paraffine paper. Three-fourths cup each of chicken and celery will fill one dozen medium-sized rolls.

Lettuce may be carried separately in a damp cloth, and each roll served on a crisp lettuce leaf.

Frankfurter Rolls. Broil frankfurters and cut in halves lengthwise while hot. Cut oval shaped rolls in halves and remove soft centers. Spread with softened butter. Place halves of frankfurters in rolls. Spread thickly with salad dressing. Press two halves of rolls together and serve at once.

A Food Novelty.

There is a food novelty on the market in the form of what can best be described as fruit and vegetable chips. These come in packages and may be bought in grocery shops. They are assorted in colors and flavors and are very simple to prepare. All you have to do is to heat a small amount of

COOLING FOODS BEST IN HOT WEATHER

Take Care to Avoid Digestive Trouble Due to Too Much Chilled Food.

A good slogan for the housewife to adopt just now is "Keep cool with food." Food is the fuel for our body engines, and the amount of heat those engines generate depends largely on the kind of fuel, and the amount of fuel, that they receive. Food is not only used to generate heat, however, it must provide building and growth material and repair the daily wear and tear of living. Both of these facts must be kept in mind when planning any diet or meal plan. Fruit juices are perhaps about the most cooling food we can get, but a diet made up of fruit juices alone, would not supply the elements needed for good nutrition over any long period of time.

It is necessary to use enough fuel to supply the energy needs and to keep the body in a good state of health; in summer it is best to do this by selecting large amounts of those foods that are most easily digested and that, by their mineral salts and acid content, have a cooling and refreshing effect.

In winter the problem is to produce enough heat to keep the body warm; in summer, in order to keep comfortable, we have to plan to get rid of the heat that is produced. Light weight clothing, cooling baths, carefully selected food, cold beverages—all these help. Warm days, or sudden changes in weather are likely to bring about digestive disturbances, so that it is best to keep to simple and rather plain foods at this season. Foods rich in fat should be avoided, as they always slow up digestion. Rich pastries, sauces, heavy gravies and very rich desserts are best left for cold weather. Hot breads are often likely to cause indigestion, especially in hot weather; however, those with crisp crusts, such as pop-overs, crusty biscuits or rolls, may be used in moderation.

Warm Weather Meals.
The best warm weather meals are made up of a moderate amount of lean meat or some other protein food, such as eggs, cheese, fish; a liberal allowance of simply cooked vegetables, and vegetables served raw; an abundance of fruit either raw or cooked. If there is any doubt as to the ripeness of fruit, it is best to cook it (stew or bake) for unripe fruit, or over-ripe also, can do a lot of damage to one's digestive apparatus. In some cases cooking makes fruit more digestible.

Simple Desserts.
Desserts should be simple—those made from apples, gelatin, cornstarch and fruit or fruit juices are refreshing, easy of digestion and nutritious. Frozen mixtures of the plainer sort, especially the sherbets and ices are good, and if eaten slowly at the end of the meal, will not slow up digestion unduly. Cold fruit beverages should have a large place in the summer dietary because of their cooling qualities. Avoid too much chilled food though, as it will be sure to cause discomfort.

Special care should be taken to guard against spoiled food, for warm, moist days make bacteria flourish mightily. See that the ice-box is kept clean, well chilled and that the food is kept in it. Meat, milk, fish or any protein food must be kept cold at all times. The menus that were used in this week's meal plan are good examples of hot weather meals, and of the types of food best suited to this season.

Peach Melba.
Place a thin circular piece of sponge cake on a dessert plate. On this place half of a canned or preserved peach. Above the peach place vanilla ice cream and then cover it with rich raspberry sauce.

A TASTE OF SUGAR IMPROVES MANY COOKED VEGETABLES

Fruits and Cereals More Tantalizing When Flavored With This Sweet.
Authorities on menu building advocate eating at least one raw fruit and one raw vegetable each day, also a fruit and a vegetable well cooked.
The vitamins and minerals found in fruits and vegetables tone up the whole system. They give many of the healthful elements the body requires in the diet.
A dash of sugar is recommended for adding to the pleasure of eating fruits and vegetables.
Nature developed this supreme flavor for relieving our diet of blandness and monotony.
Use a dash of sugar in nearly every vegetable while it is cooking (preferably in little water). This small amount of sugar does not make the vegetables taste sweet. But it is surprising how it develops the natural flavors of the foods.

MINTED PINEAPPLE SALAD

Dainty Dish for a Green Color Scheme Luncheon Menu.
Wash mint and boil in one and one-half cups of water for 15 minutes. Drain off water and measure one cup. Add two cups sugar and cook 20 minutes.
Add green vegetable coloring to obtain the shade of green. Place slices of canned pineapple in this syrup and let stand over night.
This affords a delightful variation for salads and desserts.
Arrange one slice of well-drained green pineapple ring on lettuce leaf. Top with balls of pimento cheese.

REFRESHING ICED TEA FOR WARM DAYS

These Icy Cold Mixed Drinks Are Cooling on the Warmest Days.

Making tea is a matter of detail. Follow this recipe and you will brew as delicious tea as ever delighted an epicure. Change a single detail and you will miss the flavor of perfection.

Brewing the perfect cup of tea is done by this method:

1. Allow one teaspoonful of tea for every cup.

2. Rinse teapot with boiling water.

3. Place the tea leaves in an earthenware strainer in an earthenware pot.

4. Pour freshly boiled water over the tea leaves immediately.

5. Let the tea steep from three to five minutes according to the strength desired.

6. Remove strainer containing grounds and tea is ready to serve. One teaspoonful to a cup. Do not reduce the amount. If you wish to decrease the strength of the tea, reduce the time of infusion to three minutes or less.

Many housewives make the mistake of using water from the hot water faucet. Water that has simmered or boiled for any length of time is fatal to good tea. An earthenware pot is essential. Metal pots set up a chemical change in the tea which is ruinous to its taste.

Cinnamon Gardens Spiced Tea.

Make a syrup by dissolving one-quarter cup of sugar in a little water. To this syrup add juice of two lemons and two oranges, including shreds of lemon and orange rind, and a similar quantity of cloves. Pour a quart of furiously boiling water over 5 heaping teaspoonfuls of tea. Steep for four minutes. After straining tea leaves pour over other ingredients. After thorough chilling serve with mint leaves in each glass. Sufficient for six glasses.

Golden Glow Iced Tea.

Make tea as suggested, using one heaping teaspoonful of tea for each glass desired. Fill the glasses about two-thirds full of chopped ice, and over this pour the hot tea. This may be served with either lemon or orange sliced, or one teaspoonful of orange or lemon juice added to each glass of tea.

Fruit Punch.

One cup orange juice, one cup sugar, two cups tea, one-third cup lemon juice two pints ginger ale, slices of orange and lemon.

Make hot tea as directed. Pour over the sugar. When sugar has dissolved, add the fruit juices. Strain over a large piece of ice placed in the punch bowl. Add ginger ale and sliced lemon just before serving.

SARDINES ADD APPETITE APPEAL TO SUMMER MEALS

These Tasty Tidbits Provide an Intriguing Flavor to Many Cold Foods.

Appetizing and tempting summer foods include sardines which make the most appealing canapés, sandwiches and tidbits for informal and formal meal service.

Sardine Canapés.

Spread rounds of toast with salad dressing and on each round place a circle of pimiento. Across this lay the sardines. Garnish with slices of lemon.

Bread and pimiento may be shaped with a cookie or biscuit cutter.

Sardine Sandwiches.

Remove bones and skin from sardines and mash to a paste. Add finely chopped hard-boiled egg, allowing one egg to each can of sardines. Mix thoroughly with salad dressing and spread between buttered slices of bread.

ENJOY SUMMER MEALS.

Delicious Fresh Fruits and Vegetables Have Appetite Appeal.

To healthy young appetites the thought of food must often be planned in terms of interest may seem a bit unusual—if they stop to think of it at all, but those who have to plan, shop for and prepare these meals know well how important it is, and how big a part it plays in keeping family tempers adjusted.

Sweet corn, succulent pods of young okra, home-grown garden tomatoes, the dainty flavor of chard, juicy fresh peaches, delicious watermelon, to say nothing of cantaloupe, honeydew and caba melons, golden Bartlett pears and the juicy little Seckles, plums and grapes of many hues, add interest both to the planning and enjoyment of meals.

HOOPER TO TAKE UP DROUTH RELIEF WITH GOVERNORS

states, and through them the counties, with whom the various Federal agencies can co-operate.

Need Crops Reduced.

"I now have the preliminary survey of the Department of Agriculture of the situation as of Aug. 1. It shows that the shortage of animal feed crops is most acute in Southeastern Missouri, Northern Arkansas, Southern Illinois, Southern Indiana, Southern Ohio, Kentucky, Northern West Virginia, and Northern Virginia, with spots of less dimensions in Montana, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska—the latter three states being the less acutely affected.

"I shall ask the Governors of those states to attend.

"The feed crops in some other states are also reduced, the amount of ultimate reduction depending upon rain during the next two weeks. It may develop that we shall need to ask the Governors of one or two other states also to attend.

"In any event in the most acute areas we should now lay the foundation for effective local and state organization, the object of which is to prevent suffering amongst farm families deprived of support, and to prevent the sacrifice of livestock more than is necessary.

1,000,000 Families Affected.

"I have mentioned there are approximately 1,000,000 farm families who possess approximately 2,250,000 horses and mules, 6,000,000 cattle and 12,000,000 hogs and sheep.

"This represents approximately 12 per cent of the animals in the country. Obviously the individual farmers in the acute area are differently affected. Their losses run all the way from a few per cent up to their entire animal feed crops. The actual numbers who are in distress will, therefore, be shown what aid is needed.

"In addition to the memorandum completed by the Government, the Red Cross also is ready to take a hand if the report shows a large extent of human suffering.

A policy of furnishing credit to the cattle grower for the purchase of feed was put forward by C. Williams of the Farm Board. His plan is not yet Farm Board policy and cannot be put into force until other members of the board return here for a conference. However, it was understood to be supported by the grain stabilization officials.

How Plan Would Operate.

Williams proposes that feed distribution agencies, or other corporations formed for the purpose, underwrite grain to be delivered to individuals in exchange for the latter's notes, properly indorsed and accompanied by sufficient collateral.

The grain would be furnished in car lots at market prices by the Grain Stabilization Corporation, arranging cash payments over one or two years. This grain, he said, would be replaced out of the 1936 crop in uniformity with the policy of not placing the corporation's stocks on the market in competition with current grain. The whole project could be put in effect in four days, he said.

In his office, President Hoover has arranged a series of maps of the affected areas. As the reports come in, he, or one of his aids, will check the conditions on the map. He also is being supplied with all available information from the Weather Bureau.

CAPE COD FOREST FIRE UNDER CONTROL, DAMAGE $200,000.

30 Square Miles Burned on Both Sides of Canal; Blaze Raged 72 Hours.

By the Associated Press.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Aug. 7.—Forest fire on Cape Cod, which burned 30 square miles of woodland, is under control today, after burning 72 hours.

A check-up showed the damage by the two fires, one on both sides of the Cape Cod Canal, considerably less than at first thought, while about 18,000 acres of woodland were burned over in the 20-square-mile area. Only 50 acres of cranberry bogs were destroyed and no permanent homes were reached by the fire. The damage, fire fighters said, would probably reach $200,000.

About 2000 fire fighters were engaged day and night in checking the flames.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 8.—With one exception, forest fires in Northern Idaho and Eastern Washington are under control. In the Pine Creek Protective Association area, in the Coeur d'Alene region of Idaho, fire was destroying valuable timber.

Wheat Closes 1-8c Lower to 1-2c Higher After Top Upward Range of 3 Cents—Possible Weather Relief Next Week Reported.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 8.—Wheat futures closed over 3 cents in the early trade but reacted substantially from the high on profit-taking and final prices were only 1/8c up on September and May with December 1/2c lower. Corn closed 1/2c lower, after December had ranged up early. The corn decline followed a long weather report from Washington seeing a forecast break in the drought by the middle of next week.

Comments on the weeks of drought and heat made up the news in the market with wheat prices being viewed at points but some reaction was seen at local quotations. Canada, where wheat prospects were said to be declining, received attention of wheat traders. Winnipeg wheat was down 1/4c to 1 1/4c lower.

September wheat opened at 95c, December 1.01 1/4, May 1.07 1/4. September corn opened at 95c, December 1.01 1/4, May 1.07 1/4.

ALLEGED RUSSIAN PRINCE

IS HELD AT POLICE STATION

Eugene Bariatinsky Being Detained for Immigration Authorities After Check Case.

A man who said he was Eugene Bariatinsky, former Russian prince, is being held for immigration authorities at Souard Street Station following his arrest yesterday on complaint of Frank Schultz, butcher, 2102 Ann avenue, who said Bariatinsky had given him a bad check. The check has since been made good, Schultz said.

Bariatinsky for several months has been engaged in the promotion of a food and health show at Russian-American hall, 1431 Chouteau avenue, and has published one edition of a Russian language newspaper, the Russian-American News. He has an office in the Arcade Building.

According to Bariatinsky, he entered the United States through Mexico by way of California four years ago and was engaged in the advertising business in San Francisco before coming here. He says he was a lieutenant under Gen. Peter Wrangel, who led one of the uprisings against the present regime in Russia. Since the failure of this effort, he has been a refugee, Bariatinsky says.

Mid-Summer Party

MADAM SUMMER, wearing a golden costume, with a wreath of flowers around her head, sat on a stump at the edge of the woods overlooking many fields. She was holding what she called her mid-summer party and now all the guests were arriving. Many crickets and Katy-dids were arriving, and bees dressed in handsome golden suits, and butterflies looking their very loveliest. There were some orchard orioles perching on some fruit trees not far away and they were chirping and singing their joy at being at the party.

Peggy and John and the Little Black Clock were sitting on the old stump.

More and more birds flew to the party and now many interesting looking beetles had crawled over to join the members of their family.

The wind was blowing over the fields and as it blew a little through the trees the bees began to buzz and hum, and the birds chirped and sang a little, and the crickets and Katy-dids joined in the chorus.

Now the Bees Summer messenger brought Madam Summer messages of greeting from her friends in the fields who could not come. The long waving members of the whole family sent their greetings and so did the members of the clover family, and so did the fields of corn.

She had delicious refreshments for her party, fruit and spring water and then the music began once more. It was so drowsy, as sleep came over the whole party, the sun and the moon and the stars could hardly keep their eyes open.

In fact they actually took nap! But did Madam Summer mind? Not a bit of it! It was just what she had hoped her guests would do!

Summer Brims for Winter
WINTER hats which duplicate the hats in velvet are conspicuous among advance models in Paris. Shallow crowns and wide brims characterize much of the latest millinery.

BROADWAY

As It Is, Was and Will Be

BY GEORGE M. COLE

CHAPTER II.

"THE GOVERNOR'S SON" did not climb the stairs of the premier's residence, advised one of the notices. A stiff frown couldn't prevent. But I am off to a foul we couldn't prevent. A stiff frown couldn't prevent. A stiff frown couldn't prevent.

New York seemed so bright and cheerful. The thought of a long road tour, I so noted a set of folks as ever gathered under Nat C. Goodwin, co-starred with Maxine Elliott. "When We Were Twenty-One" at the Knickerbocker, Broadway, now demolished but for George Lederer, Henry W. Savage and a few others.

I had hoped to become acquainted with Mr. C. At the Madison Square Theatre, Collier was in the Augustus Thomas play, "On the Quiet," and over at the Herald Square, one of the early Sam S. Shubert houses, Charles Frohman presented "The Girl From Up There," on Fourth Avenue and its final two weeks and then to London.

William A. Brady was organizing a mammoth "Tom" show—"Uncle Tom's Cabin"—and getting his name into the drama columns through the burning of the 300 jubilee singers among such dignitaries as Wilton Lackaye and Theodore Roberts. Hammerstein's Victoria, at 42nd street, boasted of "My Lady," with Charles J. Ross.

On Feb. 12, Victor Herbert, whose memory as a composer is ever before us, thanks to the radio, directed the Pittsburgh Orchestra at Carnegie Hall. Fanny Bloomfield-Zeisler was the soloist.

Daly's, at 30th street, tenanted Daniel Frohman's production of "Lady Huntworth's Experiment," and at the Lyceum, on Fourth Avenue and 23d street, Henry Miller was holding the board in "Richard Savage." In later years Mr. Miller became a theater owner and, upon seeing a display of "pictorial enlargements" in the lobby, his loud manager, concluding with the remark:

"What are you trying to do? Make this place look like a theater?"

A disfigured manager who might have had more fun in life had he listened to the philosophy of Henry W. Savage, who once said:

Viola Allen was the star of "In the Palace of the King" at the Republic on 42d street and at Wall Street, at 30th street, Mary Manning accepted honors for "Janice Meredith."

Meanwhile a team known as Gallagher and Barrett, the same Ed Gallagher who, afterward joined out with Al Shean to the tune of "Miss Gallagher and Mister Shean," was soldiering in a mock battle sketch at Koster & Bial's on West Thirty-fourth street. Edmund Hayes in a skit of mine, "The Wise Guy," kept them laughing at Kable's and Ezra Kendall was monopolizing in various variety houses.

"Floradora" settled in its fourth month at the Casino, Broadway, at Thirty-ninth street, and "Fiddler-De-Dee" submitted, boulevard of Gay Lord Quex at Weber & Fields'. Peter Dailley, over on Eighth Avenue and Twenty-third Street, at the Grand Opera House, kept things lively in "Hodge Podge." The Broadway, at Forty-first street, modestly advertised Rudolph Aaronson's "gorgeous production of Johann Strauss' most entrancing operetta, 'Vienna Life'."

"ASKING BLESSING" ON FOOD WAS NOT ORIGINALLY AN EXPRESSION OF THANKFULNESS. IN PRIMITIVE LIFE, PEOPLE PRAYED AND GAVE UP SACRIFICES TO THEIR GODS TO INSURE THEM AGAINST ILLNESS OR POISONING OF FOOD.

SALARY...
FROM THE LATIN WORD SALARIUM, ORIGINALLY THE MONEY GIVEN THE ROMAN SOLDIERS FOR SALT, WHICH WAS PART OF THEIR PAY. (HENCE THE EXPRESSION "EARNING YOUR SALT")

LORD YARBOROUGH, AN ENGLISH NOBLEMAN, OFFERED A STANDING WAGER, AT GREAT ODDS, THAT NO HAND EVER DEALT IN HIS PRESENCE WOULD BE SO POOR AS 9-SPOT HIGH... THIS HOLDING BECAME KNOWN AS A YARBOROUGH.

TOMORROW—The origin of the military salute, the making of the first deck of playing cards and the reason for marking graves will be explained.

donning the gossamer stockings in which her legs were to trip through the advertising pages of magazines for months to come, had heard a voice like little chimneys suddenly, "Get a lipstick!" And looking up, she had beheld in her dressing room doorway a ravishing beauty with gray eyes and rusted curly hair, clad airily in a chemise.

"I've lost mine," went on the newcomer. "I think it must have dropped out of my bag when I paid the taxi driver. Can I just steal a tiny smear of yours—do you mind?—I'll put it on with my finger."

While she bent toward the mirror, rubbing pigment from Dolly's pencil on to her smallest finger tip and thence on to her scalloped, small, already carmine mouth, she took the interrogative side of a comradely dialogue. What was Dolly's name? How long had she been a photographic model? How did she like it? It wasn't bad, was it, at five dollars a throw—or more if one was not averse to posing in lingerie?

Just at that moment a man in the corridor shouted, "Miss James! peremptorily, and Bee fled, with a hurried, "Thanks lots—see you again."

"Again" came soon. The manufacturer of the gossamer stockings was present that morning to watch them photographed. A stout awarthy person with a crag of a nose and an astrakhan-collared, milk-lined overcoat. During the photography he stood at one side, nibbling a thin cigar and speaking no word. When it was over he coughed the preliminary cough of his kind and

Women Want Equality In Foreign Marriages
RECENT amendments to the Cable act are inadequate, says Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, president of the National Woman's party.

The amendments remove chief discriminations against married women in the nationality law and facilitate recovery of the nationality by American women married to foreigners.

"We are now planning to introduce in Congress another bill to remove all the inequalities between men and women which still remain in our nationality law," Mrs. Belmont said.

A campaign will be waged to keep Congress constantly reminded, she said, that:

"American women but not American men lose citizenship upon marriage to foreigners ineligible to citizenship in the United States. Foreign men but not foreign women married to foreigners ineligible to United States citizenship can be naturalized in the United States during the marriage."

American women married to foreigners may not give American nationality to their foreign born children.

"But I have an engagement!" "The nearest in the line of dressing room doors swung open, and Bee James, dressed for the street, issued forth. "Hurry up, kid," she said matter-of-factly to Dolly. "You know how mamma'll rave if we keep her waiting."

CHAPTER 23.

"OH! Gay sat erect again. 'Hit the nail on the head' that time, didn't it? And I was only guessing. Well! Who is she, Jerry? The little Quinn? Wasn't that her name—Quinn?" Jerry nodded again. "You met her at Atlantic City."

"Oh, she told you?" "She told me, yes."

"Told him everything I said, I suppose," Gay thought. Aloud she remarked, smiling, "I remember she seemed very much concerned then because you drank so much, and I said to her, 'Well, why don't you marry him and reform him?' I thought she could certainly do it, if anyone could. And she—has, I take it? She—you're married?"

"Not yet."

"(Not yet!)" echoed her heart. "You see," went on Jerry, "she reversed your advice. She's going to reform me first, and make sure it takes, and then marry me—being a wise and sensible little soul. But say, Gay! Let's not talk here. A curbstone is no place at all to hash over the happenings of—how long has it been? A year? I've got a million things I want to tell you, and ask you." He beamed. "I haven't even offered my felicitations! But I will. Listen: Have you had luncheon?"

"No, I haven't."

"Going to have it with the lord and master?" "I—no."

"Then let's go." He circled around the front of the machine, and took his place beside her, under the wheel. "Where'll we go?" His dark eyes turned to consult her and remained, appreciative, upon her face. "You're very gorgeous, Gay," he said.

She smiled. "Had you forgotten?"

"Of course not. People don't forget you, you must know that. If I shouldn't see you again for 20 years after today, I'd still remember you, as the most glamorous person I ever knew. I said to Dolly once—about you—I said, 'When you look at her you think of orchids and feather fans, and pink lights, and young men in love. And there's a Lopez band in the sound of her name.'"

"I like that," approved Gay softly. And wondered whether Dolly Quinn had altogether liked it. And hoped she hadn't.

"Where'll we lunch?" persisted Jerry, snapping the switch. "Anywhere in particular?"

"Just anywhere. I don't care. How does it happen, she queried as the car bore them swiftly up the street. "You're lunching with your fiancée? Don't you usually?"

"Hardly ever. My fiancée—" he paused an instant, and Gay had an uncomfortable conviction that his mind was loving the words—"my fiancée has to do her noon tea eating on the run. She's awfully busy. She's an artist's model, you know."

"I didn't know."

"Well, she is. And going big. Busy all day long. And besides that, five nights a week she studies art. So except for dinners and Sundays I don't rate much of her time. Worse luck."

"I should say so!" Gay was sympathetic. "You must get very lonely, with such an arrangement. Don't you?"

"Sure do." He grinned at her half mockingly. "Won't you take pity on me once in a while, now that I've found you again?"

"I'd say yes," said Gay, "if I thought you meant it."

"I do mean it. I'd love it if you'd have lunch with me sometimes, see a matinee and bat around now and then. But—there's the husband."

"Well? There's the fiancée, for that matter."

"Oh," said Jerry confidently. "Dolly wouldn't object. Not in the least."

"Alan wouldn't object either," averred Gay. She added deliberately, "He wouldn't know."

"Oh!" said Jerry again, this time in a tone of enlightenment. She felt the sideways flicker of his eyes across her face. "Aren't you happy, Gay?" he asked after a pause. She shook her head. "Not very."

"I'm sorry," said Jerry. ("Darn him," she thought, "he is sorry.")

He said further, "I know Pomeroy at prep school. Not very well. But I always thought he was magnificent. When I'd heard you'd married him I thought you were both of you—very much to be congratulated."

Gay was silent.

"I'm terribly sorry," he concluded. The silence was mutual then, and three blocks long.

"Tell me more!" Gay said at last to break it. "Tell me everything about Pomeroy. Tell me—" Her glance discovered the magazine, still lying in her lap. "For heaven's sake tell me, when did you develop this housewife taste in reading matter?"

"Not guilty. Nary a word have I read, nor shall I. I bought it because—well, have you looked hard at the cover?"

Gay hadn't; not hard. Now she did, and saw a girl with a Spanish shawl and a row in her blue-black hair. "Pretty—" she began. "Oh! Oh, it's Dolly!"

"Right you are."

"I didn't recognize her at first." She studied the picture for some little time. "She's lovely," she made herself say at last. She put the magazine down in

Epidemics

HAVE you ever watched the gas house works at night? Or the chimney of the furnace at the steel works, and have you noticed how periodically flames would break forth about the chimney stack, burn for a while and then die out?

Were you curious to know why these flames broke forth with such regularity?

Had you ever inquired from some knowing person, you would have discovered that the flames were due to accumulated gas and that the periodic breaking forth of fire was due to the periodic accumulation of the gas.

As long as the gases were too thin, they would not ignite—when reaching a certain density, they would catch fire, and all of the gas would then be burned up. A fireless period would follow, then the escaping gases would begin to accumulate, and so on.

There is a similarity between these bursting flames and certain epidemics which appear regularly. Measles, for example, is a disease which appears in epidemic form every two or three years.

The reason for its regularity is to be found in the fact that it takes that long for a new crop of susceptible babies to come into the world. Once the epidemic has run through a community it usually has affected most of the susceptible children.

The disease will remain sporadic—that is, appear here and there in isolated cases for a time until the infant and child population becomes dense enough, and then the disease will become epidemic.

Other epidemics follow a similar cycle. In the United States every once in a while in some location there smallpox vaccination has not been enforced, we have an epidemic of the disease.

A Vacation Hint
If you are vacationing at one of the camps or beaches near the city and find entertaining tramping, laborious or too fatiguing, or not at all desirable, be honest with your friends and let them know you are there for a restful vacation and cannot serve meals to motor parties or entertain week-end guests. Your friends will understand and respect your wishes—those who do not, well, why care about their attitude?

Clean the white enameled furniture with a soft cloth dipped in turpentine. Polish with a soft cloth.

A Pipe Cleaner.
Whenever you use gasoline for cleaning purposes pour the refuse down the sink. The gasoline will cut the grease deposits wonderfully. Pour boiling water down immediately following the gasoline bath.

Hose for Washing.
When washing the heavy bedspread, double it and pin the two edges together evenly to the line. Turn the hose on it and wet it thoroughly, then shake out all wrinkles and your spread will require no ironing.

Have you discovered the "symphonie" skin-tone?

DAILY STORY for CHILDREN

By Mary Graham Bonner.

Mid-Summer Party

MADAM SUMMER, wearing a golden costume, with a wreath of flowers around her head, sat on a stump at the edge of the woods overlooking many fields. She was holding what she called her mid-summer party and now all the guests were arriving. Many crickets and Katy-dids were arriving, and bees dressed in handsome golden suits, and butterflies looking their very loveliest. There were some orchard creepers perching on some fruit trees not far away and they were chirping and singing their joy at being at the party.

Peggy and John and the Little Black Clock were sitting on the old stumps.

More and more birds flew to the party and now many interesting looking beetles had crawled over to join the members of their family.

The wind was blowing ever so slightly, and as it blew a little tune through the trees the bees began to buzz and hum, and the birds chirped and sang a little, and the crickets and Katy-dids joined in the chorus.

Now the Breeze messengers brought Madam Summer messages of greeting from her friends in the fields who could not come. The long waving members of the wheat family sent their greetings and so did the members of the clover family, and so did the fields of corn.

She had delicious refreshments for her party, fruit and spring water and then the music began once more. It was so drowsy, so sleepy an afternoon with the humming music, the sunshine and the gentle wind that John and Peggy could hardly keep their eyes open. In fact they actually took nap!

Not a bit of it! It was just what she had hoped her guests would do!

BROADWAY

As It Is, Was and Will Be

BY GEORGE M. COHAN

CHAPTER II.

"THE GOVERNOR'S SON" did not click in a big way. The distressing incidents of the premier were mild compared to the unfavorable criticisms from the press. "Back to the woods," advised one of the notices. A stiff blow below the waist—a foul we couldn't prevent. But I am offering no alibis; we just weren't there. Why moan over a competent referee's decision?

New York seemed so bright and cheerful, too. I trembled at the thought of another long road tour, I so wanted to mingle with a noted set of folks as ever gathered under one canopy. My idol, Nat C. Goodwin, co-starred with Maxine Elliott, was appearing in "When We Were Twenty-One" at the Knickerbocker, Thirty-eighth street and Broadway, now demolished but for many years a standby for George Lederer, Henry W. Savage and A. L. Erlanger productions. I had hoped to become acquainted with Mr. Goodwin.

At the Madison Square William Collier was in the August Thomsen play, "On the Quiet," and over at the Herald Square, one of the early Sam S. Shubert houses, Charles Frohman presented "The Girl From Up There," a musical comedy in its final two weeks and was holding the board in "Richard Savage."

William A. Brady was organizing a mammoth "Tom" show—"Cade Tom's Cabin"—and getting his name into the drama columns through blurbing of the 300 jubilee pages among such dignitaries as Whitelock and Theodore Roberts. Hammerstein's Victoria, at 44th street, boasted of "My Lady," with Charles J. Ross.

A few weeks before, on Feb. 12, Victor Herbert, whose memory as a composer is ever before us, thanks to the radio, directed the Pittsburgh Orchestra at Carnegie Hall. Panny Bloomfield-Zelizer was holding the board in "Richard Savage."

In later years Mr. Miller became a theater owner and, upon seeing a display of pictorial enlargements in the lobby, scolded his house manager, concluding with "What are you trying to do? Make this place look like a theater?"

A disfigured manager who might have had more fun in life had he listened to the philosophy of Henry W. Savage, who once said:

"Be dignified, but remember there is no dignity in show business."

Van Allen was the star of "In the Palace of the King" at the Republic on 42d street and at Wallick's at 30th street. Mary Maner accepted honors for "Janice Meredith."

Meanwhile a team known as Gallagher and Barrett, the same Ed Gallagher and Mister Shean, was soldiering in a mock battle sketch at Koster & Bial's on West Thirty-fourth street. Edmund Hayes in a skit of mine, "The Wise Guy," kept them laughing at Keith's, and Ezra Kendall was monologuing in various variety houses.

"Florodora" sextetted in its fourth month at the Casino, Broadway at Thirty-ninth street, and "Fiddle-Dee-Dee" submitted burlesques of Gay Lord Quix at Weber's Fields. Peter Duley, over on Eleventh avenue and Twenty-third street, at the Grand Opera House, kept things lively in "Hodge Podge."

The Broadway, at Forty-first street, modestly advertised Rudolph Aaronson's "gorgeous production of Johann Strauss' most entrancing opera, 'Vienna Life.'"

Down on Fourteenth street, at the Academy, Charles Frohman's "Barbara Fritchie" was the place de resistance; at the Fourteenth

"The Last Appeal," his initial production, flopped as prettily as my first, as Jed Harris' first and as almost everybody's first. Broadway, you see, is a two-time street. Without the strength to hob up a second time no straw in the world will save you.

Afterward Henry B., aided by George G. Hoye, built the Hudson Theatre, Forty-fourth street east or Broadway, in 1903, opening with Ethel Barrymore in "Cousin Kate." In the next 13 years, until his death, he was one of the finer managements on the street.

At one time he had 13 productions on tour. His widow, Mrs. Renee Harris, tells of telegrams sent by road executives to their home on Sunday morning revealing weekly sums that would allow a run on a bank.

He produced such sterling hits as "The Lion and the Mouse," his most profitable venture; "The Third Degree," "The Country Boy," "The Quaker Girl," "The Chorus Lady," "The Traveling Salesman," "Strong Heart" and many others.

W B mustn't forget "Soldiers of Fortune," his first success, costing about $3000 to raise the curtain (a modest amount) and which had a month of losses before catching on. We mustn't forget, either, that "The Chorus Lady" was transported all over the town before finding a winning week. Sounds like a report on two shows in a season just passed—like any season. Despite radio and talkies there is no opposition to the legitimate theater. The stage stands alone—all alone. What it offers lives or dies on its merits. Nothing permanently wounds it. Nothing has—nothing will.

Mrs. Renee Harris has shown herself a first-rate manager. She continues to operate the Hudson Theatre—her judgment sometimes questioned, her integrity never doubted. She is one of the few capable show women the legitimate theater ever developed.

I know there'll be cries: "What about Anne Nichols and her 'Able's Irish Rose'?" What about Henrietta Crossman, who once took a stand against the so-called syndicate? What about Rosalie Stewart, whose production of "The Show-Off" topped the Pulitzer prize a few seasons ago?

Mrs. Nichols, it is true, was a Little Chance for a BABY MIX-UP In Hospitals Here

Footprints, Beads and Other Modern Methods of Identification Are in Use—Not One Case Like Chicago's in 35 Years.

EVERYTHING from beads to tiny footprints protect the babies—and mothers—of St. Louis from getting mixed up. With modern baby identification methods in vogue here, hospital authorities are united in declaring that there is but the remotest chance of a switching incident such as occurred in a Chicago hospital recently.

"In 35 years as Health Commissioner I have yet to hear of a baby mix-up in St. Louis," remarked Dr. Max C. Starkloff, "and strict means of identification practically obviate the possibility of a mother getting the wrong baby."

Besides, once a baby has been in its mother's arms she is not liable to forget it. All the identification tags in the world, useful and necessary though they are, are matched by a mother's memory.

An elaborate system of checks and counter checks made to represent the last word in baby identification methods, is in use at the St. Louis Maternity Hospital.

Before the baby has been taken from the delivery room it is given its first bit of jewelry—a bracelet of baby blue beads relieved by white beads. Each white bead bears a black letter and they spell out the baby's last name.

If twins are to be recorded, one twin wears the beaded letter "A" before its name on the bracelet and the other the letter "B." If there are two mothers in the hospital with the same last name, their babies have their initials on their bracelets.

Just for good measure, a linen tape, bearing a serial number, is sewed about the other wrist.

But the most important part is to come. A regular Baby Bertillon room is maintained at the hospital. Records are taken of footprints which hold true for life, even though the lusty infant with a two and a half-inch foot may grow into a man who just barely squeezes into a pair of No. 12s.

As the baby lies in its crib, which is duly tagged also, a glass slab is painted with ink and a little roller is moved back and forth across the glass.

Then the roller, ink smeared on, is applied to the feet of the infant. Another turn, this time manager in a big way for a spell, but she's out of the picture; Miss Crockett returned to trouping; Miss Stewart rejoined her vaudeville affiliations. Mrs. Harris is still among those present. I've seen no stories about her retirement. Howard Schnebbe continues as her general manager and the same box office staff (Allen Schnebbe and Johnny Hall) trails along. She refuses to sell the theater.

Wilbur Harris Jr., brother of the late Henry B., is remembered for John Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln," Fay Bainter in "East Is West," "Outward Bound" and "The Criminal Code," is planning an active 1930-31 season from the Hudson building.

To get back to "The Governor's Son." He was a step or two better than my debut at Keith's Union Square, but a step, nevertheless, in the right direction. We went on tour; we were welcomed everywhere—a sure-fire road success. During this regime, Lou Behman, my partner, died. I not only inherited his interest in the place, but his determination to land on Broadway.

So I turned my attention toward a second try. This time I felt we had something in our old sketch, "Running for Office," which I rewrote into a full-length musical comedy, bringing it into the Fourteenth Street Theater. Bartley Campbell's "house of hits" in the spring of 1932.

Other St. Louis hospitals are equally careful in keeping an accurate check on the identity of each infant. Most of them use beads and several are planning to install footprint systems. Bethesda, St. Luke's and St. Mary's, for example, use bead bracelets, while at St. Ann's the baby wears a tag and never leaves his mother's room.

Talks to PARENTS

By Alice Judson Peale

Whose Responsibility?

TWO-YEAR-OLD Ernie distresses his mother by picking up and eating stray bits of food wherever he finds them. He is especially partial to peanuts that people have thrown out to feed to squirrels, but he is not above appreciating a stray half stick of candy or partially eaten cracker.

She has explained to him that these things are dirty and bad for him. She has punished him, but without appreciable effect.

He says he is sorry, promises he never will do it again, and then when the next temptation presents itself he falls.

His mother is discouraged with what she considers such deliberate naughtiness and she wonders how she can make him behave.

It is too much to expect a two-year-old to abstain from picking up goodies where he finds them, especially when his own diet is rather severe and simple. It is, of course, quite proper to enlist his co-operation, but we have no right to expect of him any great or lasting amount of self-control.

A good many things which young children should learn, they must be reminded of again and again. It is too much to expect them to resist repeated temptation.

Mothers must be prepared patiently to check and correct and remind until their youngsters grow gradually more and more responsible.

Perhaps the commonest mistake that parents make is to have a degree of self-control of which many an adult falls short.

An attempt to hold him accountable before he is old enough is sure to lead only to problems of discipline to which there is no answer—for the simple reason that they should never have been permitted to arise.

SWIFT RALLY, THEN STOCKS TURN LOWER; CLOSE HEAVY

Many Bears Take Profits on Opening Decline Bidding Actively for Shares—Renewed Pressure Felt Later.

LARGEST SATURDAY TRADE SINCE JUNE

Several Important Shares Close a Point or Two Net Lower and a Few Losses Run From 3 to 5 Points—Gains of 1 to 3 in List.

The Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The stock market, enfeebled by yesterday's ideal of selling, ended the week in a wishy-washy manner today. Many bears took their profits, which caused a rather swift rally for a time, as they bid actively for the shares which they had sold short at higher levels. But the rally soon played out, and stocks sold off under renewed pressure on the last 15 minutes. Several important shares closed a point or two under yesterday's final levels, and a few losses ran from 3 to 5. A sprinkling of shares closed 1 to 1/2 higher, with American Telephone the strongest feature.

The market opened without the relief of selling which such a sharp break as that experienced yesterday would have caused in a market with large public participation, but selling grew active during the first hour, as no signs of organized support appeared. By 11 o'clock, net losses of 2 to 4 points embraced a wide range of shares. Trading was in large volume during the first half hour, the turnover exceeding 500,000 shares. The day's total sales of 1,598,440 shares were the largest for a Saturday since June.

Bear Participation Large.
Corporate news was still largely unfavorable. It was reported that Youngstown Sheet and Tube would cut operations from 60 to 55 per cent of capacity next week. Brown-Pence decreased its annual dividend rate from $2.40 to 60 cents.

While professional bear selling appeared to have been the impelling force of the decline, some conservative houses acknowledged that there had been some general liquidation. The extent of the bear participation, however, was evident in the fact that at least 100 issues in this market on the curb were showing "flat," which means that the trader who borrows stock to sell short is so anxious to get it that he is willing to forego the usual interest on the money he deposits with the broker.

U. S. Steel Is Lower.
The action of J. I. Case was indicative of the general trend. The stock sold off $4, converted its loss into a gain of 1 1/2, then showed a loss of 1. It closed down 2 1/2. Shares of a point or two at the finish included American Can, American and Foreign Power, U. S. Steel, Sears Roebuck, North American, Warner Bros., and Brer's. New York Central, Houston Oil, and Columbian Carbon lost 2. Diamond Match and Michigan Steel lost about 5.

Radio and General Electric, however, closed about steady, and in addition to American Telephone, stocks to show higher included American Water Works, Gillette, Foster Wheeler, Southern Railway and Union Pacific, up about 1 to 2 points.

In the commodity markets, wheat sagged about a cent, reflecting forecasts of showers. Corn and cotton closed about steady. The foreign exchanges were quiet and steady, with Sterling Cable at $4.87 1/2.

HEAT MATCHES NEST OF EGGS
Chicks Come Through Week After Heat Quits Job.
JOHNSTON CITY, Ill., Aug. 2.—A hen belonging to John Hobbs left her nest of eggs last week on account of the heat. Yesterday the eggs hatched under the torrid heat of the day.

At a Marion service station, attendants poached two eggs in a skillet placed under the sun's rays. Williamson County experienced its hottest day with thermometers registering from 103 to 114.
